Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi! You've probably heard that old saying, "Like a fish out of water." Brother, I know what that means.

After staying out of the water for a week while we alternated with dry-land conditioning, I literally got back in the swim Thursday and nothing ever felt so good as diving into that water in Cadboro Bay.

The swim lasted only a little more than an hour but I felt as frisky as a young horse and I think my coaches, Archie and Jack, must have thought I was going crazy the way I tore around the bay.

I was a little bit stiff across my shoulders when I first started to swim but that soon loosened up and I think I swam the fastest I have reached in any of my practice dips. While I was swimming against a slight chop, I hit what we call a "30 to the minute" pace and without going into technicalities, I will modestly admit that it is quite fast.

There was another big crowd to watch me go in and Carl Penderay of Bapco Paint was in the coaching boat taking moving pictures of me swimming.

In another boat was Andy Stewart, also of Bapco, taking pictures of Mr. Penderay taking pictures of me.

I think I am almost at the peak of conditioning as far as stamina is concerned. My arm, back and shoulder muscles are in good shape and I am positive the length of the Strait swim will not bother me. From now on, it will be a case of building up resistance to the cold.

I took a two-hour dip this afternoon and will swim three hours in Port Angeles Saturday.

Sunday morning I likely will do two or three hours and in the afternoon I will visit the Queen Alexandra Solarium and take part in the prize presentation at the conclusion of the Solarium Fishing Derby.

Speaking of that derby, someone was telling me they hope to raise $5,000 in one day for the Solarium. From all I have heard, it is a wonderful cause. I have bought my tickets and I hope you have, too. Every time I swim, I thank God that I am in good health. Some of those kids at the Solarium are not so fortunate and we should be glad to help them in any way possible.

His First 'Chute Jump A Record

PICKERING, Eng. (AP)—FO. G. B. Owen of the RAF leapt Thursday from a burning Sabre jet fighter plane at a height of nearly eight miles. He landed by parachute, uninjured.

Owen was taking part in an RAF exercise when the plane caught fire at 41,000 feet. The temperature was 67 degrees below Fahrenheit. He sucked on oxygen from an emergency tank strapped to his flying suit as he drifted to the earth.

An air ministry spokesman said the jump, Owen's first, was the highest ever made in this country.

Governor Disarms Law In Vice-Ridden Town

National Guard Takes Over Duties Of Sheriff, Police in Phoenix City

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (UP)—Battle-equipped national guard troops ruled this vice-infested city of "turmoil and fear" today after ousting all law enforcement officers and rounding up their guns and badges.

The grim-faced guardsmen, armed with machine guns, shotguns and carbines, moved into the sheriff's office and the police department on orders of Governor Gordon Persons, who declared a state of martial rule late Thursday.

All weapon permits were voided and the troops began disarming the citizenry. By early today some 40 pistols and one sub-machine gun were reported confiscated.

Persons said the guardsmen will remain in command until they have wiped out the "lawlessness, intimidation, tumult and fear" that has gripped the city's 23,000 persons since the June 18 underworld assassination of crime-fighting Albert L. Patterson.

Patterson was shot to death in an alley after receiving the Democratic nomination as state attorney general a few days before on a pledge to "clean up" Alabama, starting with his home town.

Patterson's murder climaxed years of lawlessness in this southern city where soldiers from nearby Fort Benning, Ga., were served up whisky, prostitutes, or a chance to lose a month's pay at one roll of dice or spin of a gambling wheel.

John Patterson, 32, son of the slain man and now the Democratic nominee for state attorney general, said the city remained in the grip of what he called "Crime-Politics Inc."

Young Patterson said: "The people sleep at night with shotguns and pistols by their beds. And we never answer the door after dark without a gun in hand."

The state has taken over the county solicitor's office, the circuit judgeship, the jury commission and the board of registrars, which handled voter lists, and sent in top state officials to investigate Patterson's murder.

Will She Win Again?

It'll be Solarium Salmon Derby day in Saanich Inlet Sunday and there's nothing like letting the family in on the secret of success. Last year's ladies' champion, Mrs. Ralph Wherry, went shopping today with her 18-month-old son, Grant, and had less trouble picking her lure than explaining the intricacies of its operation to the wide-eyed youngster. And Grant may be even more wide-eyed if mother comes home with a fish comparable to last year's prize winner, which weighed 18 pounds 12 ounces. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Premier To Be Absent When Duke Greeted

Bonner to Represent Government When Philip Lands at Pat Bay

By TOM GOULD

The Duke of Edinburgh will not be welcomed to British Columbia by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, and no one seems to know why.

In the official itinerary for His Royal Highness' visit to the province, Premier Bennett was to have been presented at Patricia Bay airport by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

Today, it was announced, Attorney-General Robert Bonner will be on hand as the senior official of the provincial government. Government House officials, who are handling details of the Victoria visit, said the change was made "because the premier will be out of town."

They said he will meet the Duke some days later at the British Empire Games stadium in Vancouver.

The premier's office refused all comment. Here are complete details of the Duke of Edinburgh's Victoria stay:

At 5:30 p.m. on Aug. 1 the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by Lieut. Cmdr. H. Paterson, ADC, will leave Government House for the airport with a motorcycle escort.

Other cars will transport the attorney-general and the mayor from their homes to the airport, returning to the city with the car bearing the Duke.

The plane carrying His Royal Highness will land at Patricia Bay.

Airliner, 17 Aboard, Crashes in Sea

Body, 8 Survivors Taken to Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Eight survivors and one body from the ditched Cathay Pacific Skymaster reached Hong Kong late today aboard a United States Air Force PBY flying boat.

All the survivors were injured, some appearing severely cut and bruised. They were kept incommunicado by Hong Kong authorities and taken to hospitals where no one was permitted to talk to them.

CREW SILENCED
Cathay Pacific Airline officials also prevented reporters from talking to members of the PBY crew, so details of the crash and rescue were not immediately available.

The British-owned Skymaster, en route from Singapore to Hong Kong via Bangkok, crashed into the South China Sea off Red-held Hainan Island at 9 a.m. today Hong Kong time after an engine caught fire.

Some other survivors are believed to have been picked up by small boats from Hainan and probably now are in Communist hands.

NO NAMES RELEASED
Airport and airline authorities would not even give the names of the eight survivors and the one dead person brought here.

In Singapore earlier, the airline said "all survivors" had been rescued and that the search had been called off. At that time 12 persons of the 17 aboard had been reported picked up.

GUNMEN GET $10,000 HAUL AT EDMONTON

EDMONTON (CP)—An estimated $8,000 to $10,000 was taken today by four hooded gunmen who robbed the Canada Permanent Mortgage Co. in downtown Edmonton just after the office opened.

Holding the staff of 19 at bay and forcing a lone customer to lie down on the floor, two of the bandits scooped the loot into a waste-paper basket and fled within three minutes to a getaway car waiting outside with two accomplices.

PREMIER OUSTED
Albania Said On Verge of Civil War

ROME (UP)—Anti-Communist refugees said today disorders on the scale of a "civil war" are rocking Albania following the ouster of Premier Enver Hoxha from the government.

The reports came from refugee circles in Bari, on Italy's east coast across the Adriatic Sea from Communist Albania. There was no official confirmation of the refugees' claims.

Hoxha, premier since 1945, was deposed in a shakeup which put his arch rival, police boss Mehmet Shehu, the interior minister, in the premier's post.

According to the exiles' report, Hoxha was ousted because of his alleged sympathies for Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia. These quarters said Hoxha wanted an economic union of Yugoslavia and Albania, which is known to be in the throes of an economic crisis.

Shehu, in his first statement as the new premier, attacked the alliance and said it would interfere with Albania's plans to better its relations with Yugoslavia.

Western officials believe he was kidnapped or lured there. Their fears for the safety of any American counter-intelligence secrets he may have known were heightened by a wave of arrests of Western secret agents in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Peace Pact No 'Munich', Says Smith

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under-secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, who represented the United States at the Geneva conference, said today the Indo-China peace settlement was "the best which we could have possibly obtained under the circumstances."

Smith made the statement at the airport after flying back to report to President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles on the talks he had in London Thursday night with Prime Minister Churchill.

Smith was asked whether he thought, as some congressional critics have suggested, that the peace agreement was a kind of Far Eastern "Munich." This referred to an agreement reached by the western powers at Munich before the Second World War in an effort to block Hitler's further conquest by bowing to some of his demands.

"Munich is a damn poor term," Smith growled. "At Munich things were given away when there was no fighting. This is a war."

Fish Breakfast For Diver Seeking Underwater Mark

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ed Fisher, trying to become the first man to spend 24 hours under water in a diving suit, had fish for breakfast today, 30 feet below the surface on the floor of the coral canyon.

Fisher planned to come to the surface this afternoon after 24 hours underwater. His purpose was to test a new self-contained diving suit. A team of assistants took fresh tanks of air to him every hour.

He was able to eat fish by removing the air tube from his mouth just long enough to take a bite of food.

Chou Pays Visit To East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai arrived in East Berlin by air today from Geneva for a visit to East Germany at the invitation of the Communist government.

Chou was greeted at the Soviet Schoenefeld airport by Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl. Chou also will visit Warsaw, Moscow and Ulan Bator, the capital of Mongolia, on his way home to Peking.

Entire U.S. Intelligence In Jeopardy

German Security Chief Believed In Russian Hands

BERLIN (UP)—U.S. officials said today they fear the Russians may wring secrets of the hush-hush American central intelligence agency from West Germany's security chief, Otto John, mysteriously missing behind the Iron Curtain and believed kidnapped by Red agents.

American high commission sources in Bonn said John may have considerable knowledge of American counter-espionage as a result of his recent conferences in Washington, with CIA chief Allen Dulles.

Western security officials were stunned by the news of John's disappearance and expressed fears West German security policies would have to be overhauled. They made no attempt to conceal the fact that John is the richest prize ever to fall into Communist hands.

The German counterpart of America's J. Edgar Hoover disappeared into the Soviet-run east sector of Berlin Tuesday night.

Western officials believe he was kidnapped or lured there. Their fears for the safety of any American counter-intelligence secrets he may have known were heightened by a wave of arrests of Western secret agents in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Foreign Secretary Talks With Queen

LONDON (AP)—Anthony Eden's prominent role as a peacemaker at Geneva stirred new speculation today that Prime Minister Churchill may soon retire in favor of his heir-apparent foreign secretary.

The Daily Sketch, a strong supporter of Churchill's Conservative government, said this may have been the reason Eden had an audience Thursday night with the Queen.

Most observers thought the Queen called the foreign secretary to Buckingham palace to congratulate him on his part in working out the Indo-China cease-fire. But such an audience also could mean that the 79-year-old Churchill has recommended Eden to the Queen as his successor.

RIGHT TIME?
The News Chronicle, a Liberal paper, said many members of Parliament are speculating that Churchill "may regard this as the right time to hand over to Mr. Eden."

"The foreign secretary is back from Geneva with his prestige enhanced. Suez negotiations are well under way and Washington talks have repaired many rifts in Anglo-American friendship."

The News Chronicle added, however, that "one powerful influence works against the prime minister's leaving Downing street now—his desire to seal this period of office with a top-level meeting of the Big Three."

Nine Nations Asked To Back Peace Pact

Action By Britain-U.S. Seen As Move To Prevent New Indo-China Flare-Up

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States have asked nine nations to back up the Indo-China settlement and so lessen the risk of any new flare-up, official sources reported today.

Without calling for any hard military guarantees of the Indo-Chinese cease-fire lines, London and Washington apparently are hoping to get from the nine countries:

1. A declaration, similar to that made by the United States, that they will refrain from disturbing the settlement by force.

2. A pledge that they will view with grave concern any aggressive attempts to disturb the settlement.

The United States has asked Thailand and the Philippines for this support. Britain has called for it from India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Indonesia, Burma, Australia and New Zealand.

Informants said the British-American action is intended to clear the way for a wider, international conference on the formation of a full-scale South-east Asian treaty organization.

Coffin Linked With Hunters

PERCE, Que. (BUP)—The Crown today continued its attempts to connect 40-year-old prospector Wilbert Coffin and three American bear hunters whom he is suspected of murdering in Gaspe bush a year ago.

Testimony at this morning's court session revealed that eggs purchased by the Hollidaysburg, Pa., hunters were later found by police in the possession of the defendant.

A store clerk of Gaspe said he sold eggs from his small farm to the United States tourists on the morning of June 8, 1953, the day before they entered the rugged peninsula woods to hunt bears.

The clerk said the eggs were marked and that some of them were later found in Coffin's possession.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Stand nude in a dark room and choose the proper color for your ailments, read the instructions accompanying a boxed-in lamp.

The apparatus was bought for $70 from Mrs. Nathalie Witt, who with Mrs. Virginia Folea have been charged with illegal practice of medicine.

The buyer was Mrs. Pat Patton of the better business bureau, who says Mrs. Witt refers to herself as a "normalator," and boasts of a thriving practice in "helping" people by bathing them in colored light suited to their complaints.

Mrs. Patton said the devices were manufactured and sold by Dinshah P. Chudial's "spectrochrome institute" before 1947, when Dinshah was convicted on food and drug administration charges and his cult went underground.

'TERRIFIC' GEORGE DREW WILL STAY, SAYS HEES

HALIFAX (BUP)—President George Hees of the national Progressive Conservative Association today described the split in the party's ranks in British Columbia as "purely local" and said that George Drew would continue as party leader.

Hees told a news conference that Drew was doing "a terrific" job and would lead the party into the next federal election as he has done in the past two.

City Scraps 1-Way Street Plan, May Oust Traffic Engineer Doble

City Council decided Thursday to scrap its one-way street system, and came close to turning the whole matter of traffic control over to the police department.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. Robert Macmillan were both in favor of doing away with the position of traffic engineer in the City Hall and letting the police run the show.

They sponsored a resolution to that effect, which won support from the mayor, but the question was tabled before a vote was called.

Decision to rid the city of its existing one-way thoroughfares was unanimous. It will take an amendment to the city's streets and regulation by-law to make the changes lawful, however, and it is expected it will take until September or October before two-way traffic is restored.

Streets affected are View, Fort and Broughton.

Changes Discussed

Question of one-way streets was raised at Thursday's council meeting by a recommendation of the council's public works committee that the direction of traffic on Fort Street be changed so that cars would travel east instead of west, and also that View Street be made one-way all the way through, from Government to Douglas, in an easterly direction.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman of the committee, acknowledged the recommendation had not met with unanimous support in committee and conceded: "I'd sooner see it the way it was in the first place, going both ways."

Ald. Edgelow and Macmillan quickly agreed.

Chinese Puzzle?

Ald. Edgelow likened the present set-up to "a Chinese cross-word puzzle."

"I have never seen so much confusion in such a short time in such a small city," he said.

Ald. Macmillan said Victoria's present traffic did not warrant one-way streets and that when it did, one-way streets would probably "have to be introduced throughout the whole business district; not just part of it."

Ald. Macmillan alleged that the city's traffic trouble started three years ago when council decided the city needed a traffic engineer. He said he was against it at the time but that the idea had been put through by ex-Ald. Waldo Skillings.

Ald. William Pinfold said the trouble was the city had two men on the payroll concerned with traffic and that they were at loggerheads. He later elaborated and named the two: Robert Doble, traffic engineer in the public works department, and Sgt. Brooke Douglass, of the city police.

"They won't agree on anything," Ald. Pinfold complained. Ald. Pinfold noted the present one-way street system was Mr. Doble's idea.

Council Misled?

Ald. Macmillan complained that council had been led to believe that the one-way system was only going to be tried on an experimental basis and would cost very little. Actual cost of installing the one-way street system was around $4,500.

City engineer Cyril Jones called before council, was hesitant to give an estimate as to how much it would cost to undo the one-way street plan but suggested $2,000 would be "a pretty good guess."

Ald. Macmillan at one point accused Mr. Jones of having deliberately misled the committee when the one-way street plan was first under consideration.

Mr. Jones said this accusation was "a downright lie." "The committee knew exactly what was involved when it voted on it," he declared.

Mr. Jones also defended Mr. Doble.

"He's done a great deal of valuable work for the city. He's saved the city a great deal of money and he's earned the city's respect."

Sportsmen Build New Boat Floats

CHEMAINUS—Work on two new boat floats has been completed by Rod and Gun Club members.

The new floats are located between the Island wharf and the chipper berth, and are designed to facilitate 12 small boats owned by club members. Work was begun last April and finishing touches to the sturdy floats were made last week. One float is 40 by six feet and the other is 35 by six feet. Club members did the work on the floats themselves, while much of the material was donated.

a great deal of money. There's lots of work he does apart from this."

City manager Cecil Wyatt added: "I have no hesitation in saying Mr. Doble has been an invaluable employee to the city of Victoria."

Ald. Edgelow said that in proposing the job of traffic control be turned over to the police he wasn't suggesting Mr. Doble be fired. He felt Mr. Doble could continue with the city as an electrical engineer, in which capacity he was first employed.

Douglass Ignored

Ald. Edgelow called attention to the fact that some years ago the city paid for Sgt. Douglass to attend a traffic school in the eastern United States. He said the sergeant had never been given an opportunity to use the knowledge he gained there.

He argued that in any event the police were best suited to solving the city's traffic problems since they had to deal with the problems day in and day out.

Ald. Dowell interjected: "I'll tell Ald. Edgelow that if he turns this over to the police department he'll have one-way streets throughout the entire business district for a mile square."

Motion to table the resolution referring all traffic matters to the police was proposed by Ald. Pinfold after the city manager suggested the issue needed clarification.

When the motion to table was passed, the mayor warned aldermen they could expect a lot of lobbying on the matter.

JUST for the RECORD

DELAYED: In Fort Worth, Tex., the start of a parade of convertibles carrying contestants in the Miss Texas contest was delayed yesterday when a garbage truck accidentally joined the mobile lovelies.

IN VAIN: In Tomah, Wis., a trucker took a side road to avoid weighing in at a state truck station yesterday and ran into a ditch.

He found out later the state traffic patrol was not weighing trucks that day.

OLD SMOKY: San Francisco is proud of the beautiful flowers and shrubs that grow in its giant Golden Gate park, but the police plucked a plant yesterday they figured the park could do without—a five-foot marijuana bush.

FEUD: In Miami Beach, Fla., police appealed to city fathers today to make it illegal to swim near a new 563-foot fishing pier.

Sgt. Jack Farrell said the fishermen have been casting heavy sinkers at juveniles who insist on swimming and diving off the pier.

The youths have fought back by cutting the fishing lines.

COMPASSION: In Los Angeles, Frank O'Sullivan, Democratic congressional nominee from the 15th district, felt compassion for members of the U.S. senate engaged in a filibuster against the Atomic Energy Bill. O'Sullivan alarmed the filibustering senators a large box of vitamin pills.

BUT WHAT VICTORIAN WOULD?

If 'Tis Sun You Want Go to Fort St. John

By A. M. THOMAS

Who wants to live at Fort St. John anyway?

One of those gruesome-looking blue books put out by the B.C. department of agriculture entitled "Climate of British Columbia" gives the only possible answer.

Fort St. John was the only place in B.C. that topped Victoria in hours of "bright sunshine" during 1953. Its record was 2,075 hours, while Victoria fell 124 hours short with 1,951.

But publicity commissioner George Warren or any other Lower Island booster has a comeback. Victoria's annual average is still tops at 2,203, while Fort St. John's is only 2,018.

Let's not talk about this year's hours of sunshine, shall we?

In 1953 Victoria did not do too badly in the matter of rain and snow with a total precipitation of 31.92 inches, much lower than Vancouver's 65.27 and out of sight of Ocean Falls' record of 194.34. Least precipitation for the year was at Ashcroft with 7.31 inches.

Vancouver was both colder and hotter than Victoria last year. The Mainland metropolis registered 24 degrees in January and 84 in July, while Victoria extremes of 30 in January and a steady 82 through July and August.

Skagit River was B.C.'s hot-spot for the year, the thermometers boiling over at 101 in July.

Dease Lake, that's in the Caribou district, and Aleza Lake, up in the Cariboo, shared the distinction of the coldest places in B.C. during 1953 with temperatures of 52 degrees below zero in January.

ARENA'S LEAKY ROOF STILL PLAGUES COUNCIL

The city still is having trouble with the barrel-roof of its $1,000,000 Memorial Arena.

Aldermen learned Thursday Vancouver consulting engineer, Col. W. G. Swan, will make another check of the leaky roof and submit a report.

Advice is being sought in connection with efforts to have Insul Mastic Building Products Ltd. of Vancouver make repairs to the roof without charge.

The city contends the company is bound by a guarantee made three years ago to keep the roof water-tight for 10 years.

B.C. Must Move Peace River Gas Says Ex-Premier

'Boss' Johnson Predicts U.S. Sales If B.C. Underwrites Pipeline to Border

Former premier Byron Johnson, in his first speech in two years, told Oak Bay Kiwanis Thursday the most important project in B.C. at the moment is construction of a natural gas pipeline from Dawson Creek to Vancouver and the U.S. boundary.

Mr. Johnson said if a pipeline containing Peace River natural gas was placed on the U.S. border, "it would not be long before it found its way across the border."

"It is my belief that we really have something to sell, something that is in real demand, and we would be in a much better position to sell to the U.S. market if we had it at the boundary in a pipeline than in a capped well in the Peace River," he said.

Mr. Johnson told of a "shocking" plan revealed to him in 1950, by Pacific Northwest, the firm which has received permission to distribute gas in the Pacific Northwest states over the application of Westcoast Transmission.

"It was an interesting document showing pipe lines running from the Gulf of Mexico—one diagonally through the U.S. to Detroit, Windsor, Toronto and Montreal, and the other line running from the Gulf diagonally to Spokane along the north."

The former Liberal premier said he realized from the start that it would be doubtful if a permit would go to a Canadian company (Westcoast), because the fact it is an American firm seeking to distribute gas within U.S. borders would be in favor of Pacific Northwest.

"An appeal has been launched by the Canadian company. That is the status at present, and if the decision is confirmed and no effort made to bring Peace River gas to the lower mainland of B.C., and Vancouver Island, it seems evident that this great natural resource will lie idle for an indefinite period of time," he said.

He said an alternative would be supplying southern B.C. markets with natural gas from Alberta by Pacific Northwest.

"With the result 'our vast gas reserves in the Peace River will be dormant for a long time... and there would be loss of revenue by the province'."

B.C. Treasury Repaid From Earnings

"Original financing would be along this line:
"Private company would raise $35,000,000 in bonds, and $15,000,000 in equity stock, for a total of $50,000,000. The provincial government would raise $60,000,000 in bonds.
"Revenue realized by the provincial government in the way of royalties on gas sold in B.C., estimated at between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000, allocated to pay interest on provincial bond issue—at 3½% this would be $2,100,000.
"Equity stock in the private company would be held in escrow and no participation in earnings of the company until the provincial bond issue was paid off," he said.
Mr. Johnson said the agreement with the company would bring complete refund of money advanced by the government as soon as gas is sold in the U.S.
"What would this mean to the economy of our province?" he asked.
"It would give the provincial treasury up to $15,000,000 a year when U.S. markets are obtained; it would provide impetus to industries on deep water (which doesn't require any elaboration) and would give B.C. a clean, reliable fuel for all domestic uses."
He spoke of the many giant projects completed, or now nearing completion in the province, and said "there is one major crow and no participation in development which should take precedence over all others, and that is construction of a natural gas pipeline from the Peace River to the lower mainland and the U.S. boundary."

City Council Shelves Question of Grants

The controversial question of grants was shelved by City Council Thursday. Indications are that the matter will be left now until September, when the council reconvenes after its summer vacation.

Council has to reconsider applications for aid from the Symphony Society, the Greater Victoria Arts Centre and the Musical Art Society. In addition, it must decide on requests from the St. John Ambulance Society and The Armed Services Leave Centre.

Ald. William Pinfold tried unsuccessfully Thursday to reopen the question of grants by moving to have council rescind a motion it passed two months ago, giving the British Empire Games $3,500 out of the city's special "grant fund." Ald. Pinfold was not against the donation but complained it should never have been paid from that source.

The mayor ruled him out of order. He said a motion to rescind could only be entertained from someone who had voted in favor of the resolution. Ald. Pinfold had voted against.

Ald. Arthur Dowell won support when he suggested the whole matter of grants be tabled until such time as the Community Chest advised City Council what it intended to do with the $8,000 council turned over to it for distribution.

Ald. Dowell expressed doubt that the Chest would administer the sum on the terms laid down by council.

"I don't know if they will do it," he said. "I don't think they can."

In the meantime, council received without comment a letter from Ernest Heybroek, chairman of the Red Cross Campaign Committee, advising that the Red Cross regretted council's decision to let the Chest handle the city's grant to charity.

The Red Cross applied to the city for a grant of $1,000, an amount equal to taxes paid on Red Cross buildings. Mr. Heybroek revealed that the Red Cross had since sent the same request to the Community Chest.

WHAT NEXT?

Aldermen Going to Blaze (r)s?

NORTH BAY, Ont., (BUP) — Mayor Merle Dickerson and his councillors steadfastly refused today to give up natty blue blazers bought with municipal funds, but all hesitated to don them in public.

Two aldermen proudly sported the blazers the first day they were received, but, jeers and sneers from citizens in the street forced them to head for home and a quick change in mid-day.

Former mayor William Stones complained that the $265 purchase would set a bad precedent because future councils would want similar outfits. The blazers bear gold city crests.

Mayor Dickerson said the jackets were a credit to the city and scoffed at Stones' criticism. He also refused to consider a suggestion that the blazers be bought out of the $100 annual expense allowance given each member of council.

"That's for other things," the mayor said.

PETERS RETIRES

DETROIT (AP) — Jimmy Peters, one of the National Hockey League's most-traveled players, won't be around next season.

Canada Is Not Excluded

CANADA HAS FORMALLY ADMITTED its involvement in the dangerous affairs of Southeast Asia. That is undoubtedly the meaning of the Canadian Government's conditional acceptance of the invitation to serve on an international commission supervising the truce of Indo-China.

Many Canadians probably are confused by their nation's actual position in the proposed defense of a new line across Southeast Asia.

It should be understood in the first place that Canada has never been invited to join the proposed defense system. It is designed to defend nations closely adjoining Communist China, as Canada does not. Australia and New Zealand, for example, as southern nations close to Asia's mainland, will be members of the Pacific pact.

But it does not follow from these practical, regional arrangements either that Canada is indifferent to the pact or has made no contribution to its creation.

For some time now Canada has been quietly contributing to agreement between India and the United States, which is the first essential of any sound Pacific defense system—a special kind of contribution which only Canada could make. It is trusted as a friend in Washington and New Delhi alike. Mr. Nehru, who is inclined to see colonial conspirators under every bed, can never suspect

Canada, of designs against the Asiatics.

It was therefore possible for Mr. St. Laurent, a few months ago, to defend American foreign policy in India without affront to the Indians, and for Mr. Pearson to repeat that defense at the Geneva conference.

Historically Canada has regarded itself as a natural interpreter between Britain and the United States. Changing conditions and its unique position as the only Commonwealth nation of America have compelled it to attempt the same work between the United States and India.

What effect this work is having only time can tell. Meanwhile, as Washington dispatches tell us, Canada has been steadily contributing to the United States its thoughts on the Pacific pact—especially the thought that the pact must attract the support of the Asians themselves and that it must involve economic as well as military measures of assistance to them.

If this all seems rather vague at the moment, one fact is clear and Americans had better recognize it: Should a new defense line be crossed, should war result, Canada will be in it from the start. The Canadian Government obviously has no illusions on that score. In virtually saying that it will join a true supervisory commission, the Government is really saying that we cannot contract out of the Pacific.

The Case of Mr. Lattimore

FOR ALL ITS SOUND AND fury Senator McCarthy's campaign against subversives has brought only two men to trial.

One of them was Mr. Val R. Lorwin, formerly an economist in the State Department, who was indicted for perjury. Two months ago the Justice Department dropped the charge and dismissed the prosecutor who had launched it because he had obtained the indictment by "irregular" methods.

The second case was that of Mr. Owen Lattimore, once a State Department adviser on Asiatic affairs, whom Senator McCarthy called "the top Russian espionage agent in the U.S."

For two and a half years Mr. Lattimore was dragged through various courts and Congressional committees, suffering cruel losses in money, reputation and happiness.

NFB's London Misadventure

IN RECENT YEARS THE NATIONAL Film Board has won international honors with almost monotonous regularity. In its field it need bend the knee to none.

Its recent production "The Stratford Adventure" appears to have maintained the standards which have made NFB releases something to recognize wherever they are shown.

The subject matter, the Shakespearean Drama Festival in the Ontario city, might reasonably be expected to hold wide interest for British audiences. Canada, which has shown a certain shyness in exposing its cultural developments to the world's eyes, seemed to have picked a "natural" for the English public.

This opinion draws support from

Fishermen All

A BOY WITH A BENT PIN baited at the end of a string line can be a fisherman. A man with an expensive boat and efficient commercial gear can belong to the same broad fellowship.

Membership requirements in the fraternity are elastic. They include the aristocrat who whips a stream with his dry fly and the humble hand-liner who trolls beside the rip tide.

But on Sunday the ranks are opened still wider. Anyone can be a fisherman in practice or by proxy for the Anglers-Times Solarium derby—provided he has one interest at heart. He must contribute to the

Too Much Vodka

THE RUSSIAN STATE CLAIMS to have invented everything and solved everything. But even communism admits that it is baffled by the ancient problem of drink.

Lately the Moscow press has confessed that the Russian people, emancipated by enlightened government, are still the slaves of vodka. Drunkenness, therefore, is to be cured by a kind of five-year temperance plan of agitation, persuasion and education.

This is not Russia's first attack on the old enemy. From the beginning of the First World War until 1924 both czarist and revolutionary governments attempted to enforce complete prohibition, and made no more of a success than the blundering capitalists of the Western world. Prohibition was followed by local option in 1929 and gradually all the old restraints on drinking were removed. Such lusty statesmen as Josef Stalin, and even the austere Mr. Molotov, made vodka almost a symbol of the Revolution and their followers at international conferences customarily attempted to drink the weaker Westerners under the table.

The Malenkov regime has other views on alcohol. It is determined to reduce it if it cannot cure drunkenness. At last the free world sees in Russia one policy which it can approve.

Isolationist Invitation

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

FOR some time there was a book kicking around the house and on its somewhat foolish title "Phalliarope." The man who wrote it as you've probably noticed, is full of these whimsical poetic inventions. "Strange it was," and so on. I think I have remarked before that there is something awfully Welsh about the South Africans. Oddly enough, one symptom of this is the way they excel at Rugby football, and tend to overwork it, perhaps.

Well, the children grew fond of the title. And by and by they would greet a late-comer with this surprising cry: "You're too late, ya dumb phalliarope." Or, more briefly, "You're full o' rope," which is an odd way of telling a pal he is sluggish, unless you mean he has become a hem-pumpkin. Still, a phalliarope is merely a fancy name for a variety of coot, and it is well-known that coots are crazy. And one way of becoming as crazy as a coot is to smoke hemp. So maybe it's not so silly, at that.

UNREAL PROBLEMS
I THINK I've mentioned that chef who contributes to a mainland paper and calls himself Uncle Frank somebody, the Chief Skilleteer. He continues to amaze me. The other day he had some nifty suggestions for using up those leftover egg yolks that keep hanging around. What kind of chef do you call that, who uses plenty of whites and few yolks? Does he live on a diet of meringues and angel cake? Does he never make sauces and creamy sweets? Not even mayonnaise? Has he ever hung around a kitchen (disguised as a yolk) and kept his eyes open?

WEARS LIKE IRON
TALKING of cookery, I was making last night to anchor my dreams down, and by some combination of circumstances their texture was unusual. It depends on so many things... the heat of the griddle, the nature of the fat, the contents and age and heat of the soursour, the amount of some nifty tender... tender as a woman's heart, as the butchers used to say and may say still... and yet they had an elastic quality that reminded me faintly of well-washed gloves. "Here," said my wife, "these aren't flannel cakes. They're chamois cakes."

LOOKING AHEAD
ON my study wall there hangs a cutting from Dr. Alvarez's column. It was in an early February issue of this paper, and it has already given me weeks of comfort and hilarity. It says that my family must try to understand when I am lazy, stubborn, irritable, etc., and why I look so untidy. It isn't really my fault. It simply means I am going off my rocker, that's all. By and by I will begin to annoy or attack the neighbors, and the family should not be taken in-awares. "The family must recognize these changes from normal as signs of oncoming mental illness."

Well, laugh that off, my bohemians. La Bohème! Dey call me Mimi. But I defect one little fallacy. I am not changing from anything, normal or otherwise. I have always been messy, stubborn, and so on. I have always annoyed the neighbors. I am static.

AGAIN, it is not always lazy to be stubborn. It is the co-operative blokes who follow fashion in a sheep-like way that are lazy. And timid. Their families should watch them closely. Besides, since everyone tells us that practically everyone is now off his chump, one way or another, it seems to me that the majority, the socially minded, the normal... these are the ones who stand in the gravest peril. Perhaps only a few of us sane blokes are left, by now.

I am only partly fooling. I fear. Look how people now want to be led and organized. Look how they want to have a dozen community meetings a week and then find something to do at the meetings, as an excuse for meeting. If that is sanity, pass me my hat and strait-jacket, for I am leaving you, chumps.

Look how everyone... or rather, listen how everyone wants to go in for public speaking and "thinking on his feet," to the great distress of society. Watch how the very chaps who yell for "liberty" are the ones who want to force conformity upon us, and diagnose you as insane if you refuse. Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. I am going home. Mr. Chairman, sir, good-night. (Mr. Brock then walked out, closely followed by two male nurses. Sensation.)

HOW IT IS DONE
A RECENT example of American misconceptions in surprising places occurred in the third volume of the memoirs of Herbert Hoover. Mr. Hoover is under the impression that titles and wealth are officially and automatically bestowed on every ex-Prime Minister of Great Britain. "When the British Prime Minister is defeated," says he, "he may if he wishes receive a great title, he automatically draws a great pension, and everybody makes way for his Lordship. Some Prime Ministers delay this sign of retirement in order to hold position in the House of Commons, but most accept it; none fall on the pension."

Writing in the Illustrated London News about this amazing statement, Mr. E. D. O'Brien says: "Now I do not believe that even the callowest and most determined member of the British Extreme Left would come out with anything so silly as this, and I am therefore tempted to regard with suspicion such statements of Mr. Hoover's as I cannot immediately disprove."

U.S. Look at Schools

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND from Washington

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has usefully focused the attention of the country upon the need of rebuilding its 430,000 miles of run-down highways—outgrown and neglected during the war and post-war years.

His $50,000,000,000 ten-year program is probably essential to the health of our economy and it is all to the good that the President is pressing for it on a basis of federal and state co-operation. But there is another construction program even more needed, even more urgent. It involves the re-building and expansion of our public schools which have been outgrown and neglected during the past decades. Such a program is essential to the health of our democracy. A public school education is no longer equally available to American youth.

Today the facilities of a public education throughout the United States are dangerously short supply. The need can only be met on a basis of federal and state co-operation—and that means federal money.

FAMILIAR STORY

There is need for a long-range educational building program—to bring the physical plant into keeping with a steadily mounting population, to pay teachers better, to recruit better teachers.

But there is also a need for emergency action to meet an emergency situation. Today the nation's school facilities are not even holding their own. The demand is growing more rapidly than our schools are growing. The situation is getting worse, not better.

There were 36,000,000 boys and girls attending public school this year.

There will be 44,000,000 boys and girls demanding to be admitted to our public schools in 1960.

How many will we have to turn away?

The answer will depend on what the federal and state governments do now, today—at this session of Congress.

At least 700,000 public school students this year were forced to attend school only half-time because of the lack of facilities.

This isn't just a statistical crime against the nation's youth; this is a real crime. These are flesh-and-blood boys and girls who are getting half an education. This isn't tomorrow's problem; this is today's problem.

The deficiency in classrooms in the public schools this year is 341,000; that is, there are already 341,000 fewer classrooms than needed to accommodate the present number of students from first grade through high school.

Every year we are falling 67,000 classrooms further behind the need—two classrooms shorter every fifteen minutes of every day.

BILL PUSHED

Something can be done about it and something needs to be done about it.

Right now Senator John Sherman- Cooper, R., of Kentucky is doing his heroic best to see that something is done about it. At his initiative and push, the Senate labor and public welfare committee has given its unanimous endorsement to a bill, which would authorize the expenditure of $250,000,000 a year for the next two years for public school construction on the basis of matching state funds. If passed and carried through energetically by the states, this would put an additional $1,000,000,000 into public schools in the immediate future and would enable the school system to hold its own and partially begin to make up the grievous classroom deficiency while longer-range plans were being worked out.

There is no certainty, but at least a good chance that the Cooper Bill will pass the Senate if it isn't trod under foot in the frantic rush to adjourn. The more serious hurdle will be in the House but even here the House education and labor committee has just set up a special subcommittee to study the emergency school situation.

So far the administration has appeared to be satisfied with the long range approach to the classroom shortage and has not given its support to anything but a plan to summon a big educational conference to see what most needs to be done.

NO FEDERAL INTERFERENCE

There is, of course, need to make sure that federal funds are not made a device to insinuate the federal government into the running of the schools themselves. That belongs exclusively to the states. Federal interference can be protected against. The fact that the federal government matches state funds in highway construction doesn't mean that the federal government has any hand in making the state traffic laws.

The states simply haven't the resources to build urgently needed classrooms.

Here is where the states and the federal government must combine to do what the nation urgently requires: More classrooms in more schools now unless we are to let our public school system dangerously deteriorate.

HELP THE POLICE

In reference to the assaulting of a Victoria police officer, may I say that the police exert themselves to look after the care, comfort and protection of citizens. I have said before, and I say again, that the Victoria force is second to none in the whole of Canada.

May I suggest that the public meet the officers in kindly recognition of their work, abide by the law and help the police in performing their duties.

HOW COME?

Will you kindly find space in your paper for the following letter, re the raise in the BCE bus fares.

When in Vancouver a short time ago we took a BCE bus from Stanley Park to Marpole (no transfer). We asked the driver of the bus the distance we had traveled and he told us about eight miles. The fare was 12½ cents. The BCE now is trying to advance that fare to 15 cents.

In Victoria we travel about four or five miles for 10 cents, and the BCE propose to advance that to 12½ cents. Vancouver eight miles 15 cents. Victoria four or five miles 12½ cents, often with transfer, which means a change in buses.

How come? How do they figure this out?

VETERANS' PENSIONS

Our very honorable prime minister, just recently returned from a half-million dollar trip around the world (paid for, in part, by Canada's old veterans) in a decision endorsed by members of his cabinet, who a few months ago engineered a sizeable raid on the treasury to fatten their own well-filled pocket-books, has decreed that Canada's old veterans are not entitled to a decent standard of living in this period of Canada's greatest prosperity.

The failure of our fellow-Canadians to register a resounding nation-wide protest against this arbitrary and undemocratic refusal to consider the unanimous request of the Commons veterans committee for consideration of an increase in veterans' allowance and in total permissible income, would strongly indicate that the national conscience has become somewhat atrophied in so far as our old veterans are concerned.

OF PEACE AND PROSPERITY

In your issue of July 20, Mr. S. A. Whitfield asks why it is not made known that as he says, "Communism is a godless ideology," while he claims that "Democracy" has long been known as "Christendom" and is a commonwealth of free people.

In that case may I ask Mr. Whitfield to explain how in his opinion the peoples of the world would survive if all the nations were as free and as "Democratic" as for instance Canada and the United States? Suppose there were no "godless" nations or peoples and the whole earth was assured of 50 years of totally unbroken peace. That could mean the "cease-fire" in construction of armaments, of bombing planes, tying up of navies and dismissing all crews, dismissing and putting into other jobs millions of men and top-hat generals now in armies, and putting back into peacetime pursuits and constructive jobs of all the millions now engaged in destruction, or the creation of destructive equipment.

Would Mr. Whitfield tell us how under our "Christian" monetary or economic system these millions would dispose of the result of their labor if employment could be found, and if not how would they live if unemployed?

In answering I would remind Mr. Whitfield that at this moment, the governments of both Canada and the U.S. are faced with surplus goods and food for which no market can be found, and in the face of the continued threat of a major war, with growing unemployment. Without this threat, and with assured peace for 50 years, what economic or monetary system would he recommend as a safe and assured plan for "free" and democratic people to adopt?

NO CITIZENS VOICE

There must be thousands of Victorians who regret the city has no strong, active citizens' association to speak for the people in the greatest issue in a quarter, if not a half century.

What the organizers saw fit to call the "Greater Victoria Citizens' Association" was organized some months ago, but disappointingly it limited itself to a narrow field and the wholly repressive action of barring legal access to liquor by the glass to those who desired it. Apparently after the people had shown the majority view was not the view of the association members, the organization ceased to exist.

At present, with a demand from the BCE for an increase in bus fares which will affect not only a minority but practically every human being in the city for an unknown number of years, involving unknown millions of dollars of their wages and incomes, the people have no association to represent them. Even a little thought will make it clear to anyone there is no comparison in magnitude between the two issues.

With the Public Utilities Commission hearing coming so soon, is it known if any organization is preparing to draw the attention of that board to the vast (never tested by a public vote) dissatisfaction among the citizens regarding the sufficiency or insufficiency of the bus service?

It seems apparent that if only the statements of the BCE are to be taken as to the growing difficulty of keeping buses running at all in the streets that public transport in Victoria is definitely on the way out and that it is only a matter of time until modern conditions have choked it to death. How else may the people interpret the statement that if the fare increases now demanded are granted, Victoria will have the highest fares in Canada though among the major cities of the country. Victoria undoubtedly has in general the shortest routes?

THE PRICE

The chaos of the twentieth century is largely attributed by Senor de Madariaga to the reaction of human nature against the exacting claims made upon it during the nineteenth century by reason and liberty, "the two martyrs of our age." Absolute values have become relative, and basic political standards must be re-examined. Unlimited power has been given to the masses before they are ready to handle it, with the inevitable confusion of ends and means... "the end of democracy, which is to ensure that tomorrow all citizens are able and conscientious to advise on how to govern the State, and the means which is to ensure that the State is well-governed today."

—The Times Literary Supplement on Salvador de Madariaga's "Essays with a Purpose."

Folly To Be Wise

I have been talking to a high school graduate who is now trying to map out a career. The young person's interest seems to run to science.

What inspires that inclination isn't apparent. It could be a Hollywood picture with people in white juggling test-tubes. Or it could be one of those dreams of youth that are bright and shining in their implication of service and are not sullied by some of the harsh realities of life.

Ordinarily I'm inclined to bow down to science in a sort of primitive worship, due, probably, to a lack of understanding that creates the mysticism which has inspired a lot of primitive religions.

But I have been reading a brief report of Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner's address to the American Society of Chemical Engineers in which he discusses some of the impositions placed on the scientist today.

Dr. Berkner is the operating head of the Brookhaven National Laboratory and adviser to the United States Department of Defense and other government agencies.

Having read a few of his remarks, I'm wondering to what extent the impact of American control of scientists is felt in Canada. And I'm wondering how happy the high school graduate could be under the unusual fetters placed on science in this day.

"In the modern world," says Dr. Berkner, "all important areas of science have military implications, and under our American present policies must therefore fall inevitably under the cloak of military secrecy."

STULTIFYING

The eminent United States scientist proceeds to outline the stultifying effect of this condition. It is not merely a matter of personalities. That can be bad enough. But the restrictions by which scientists are prevented from co-relating their work, of learning from the discoveries and research of others and thereby forced to waste time covering ground that has already been covered, disturb Dr. Berkner.

His approach to the question is coldly analytical. There isn't too much emphasis on personal irritation—though the incidence of that must be high. He speaks, in the article I read, mainly on the over-all destructiveness of secrecy in science which, until recent times, has enjoyed a comparative freedom for the exchange of ideas, a sort of internationalism found in few other fields of human endeavor.

The problem does not end there. Take the case of a distinguished figure in the ranks of nuclear physics—call him a hypothetical character if you like. Assume that he knows more about the creation of the H-bomb than anyone else. And then trace out the implications of any fall from grace on his part.

Suppose the man is thoroughly honest, but just talks too much—possibly over to many cocktails at the wrong bar or at the wrong cocktail parties. If that is his failing, think of the anguish he causes security officers whose viewpoints are narrowed to a thin groove concerned only with preventing important information from reaching alien sources where it could do the nation harm.

Then fix the character into a society highly security-conscious and overly-impressed with the attitude of security officers.

TRAGEDY

Under those circumstances it isn't hard to imagine the misfortune that would befall the scientist. For purposes of national safety he could be stripped of honors, his means of making a living and his reputation among loyal citizens. That is tragedy in itself.

But is that sufficient with a man who knows more about H-bombs than anybody else? Were he to turn resentful and decide to attack the people he considers his persecutors, he could become a menace to his entire country.

How, then, would his mouth be stopped? The implications are obvious: There is a way to stop a man from talking or moving around, at an extreme, it could be hideous.

Still, it doesn't have to be pressed to an extreme to make a career in science something less than a glorious opportunity to serve humanity. If society puts too many checks and curbs on the scientific mind, the whole field of science loses its attractiveness.

I've been thinking of that following my talk with the high school graduate. Here was a youngster who presumably saw science as a magic door through which entry might be gained to knowledge of benefit to all humanity.

It's a little discouraging to think that door could be the way into a prison of the mind—and maybe not only the mind.

MENTAL CONCENTRATION CAMP

I have been optimistic enough to think that the development of weapons of destruction has been but one part of science and an exaggerated part at that. Now Dr. Berkner says all the important areas of science have military implications. Does this mean that conditions today are making science the mental concentration camp of the cold war?

That isn't what the high school graduate had in mind while planning a career.

YOUR HEALTH

New Treatments for Cancer

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Recently, I had an interesting experience: I went out to the University of Chicago with Mr. Maurice Goldblatt, the man who has dedicated the remainder of his life to the raising of money for cancer research.

After luncheon with the able Dean of the Medical School, Dr. Coggeshall, and a chat with the famous surgeon, Dr. Huggins, who is doing so much for men with cancer of the prostate gland, we visited a number of the research workers, in the Nathan Goldblatt Hospital and the Billings Hospital, and then went through the new Argonne Cancer Research Hospital.

I was most interested in the department of the Argonne Hospital in which men were assembling and readying for use the new machines which are to supply extremely powerful cancer-killing rays.

There was the "bomb," made up of radioactive cobalt which gives off as powerful a beam of gamma rays as would come from many millions of dollars' worth of radium.

Then there was the Van der Graaf electrostatic accelerator, the basic principle of which is like that of the old rotating glass disc machine which was used by the pioneers who studied x-rays in 1896. It looks like a metal barrel perhaps 20 feet long and 3 feet in diameter. Out of one end it comes a finely focused beam of 2,000,000 volt rays.

Another machine that delivers very powerful rays is the new Stanford type of linear accelerator. It is a long tube through which the electric missiles are shot at a tremendous speed and with great force. In addition to these three new sources of rays, the laboratory has two of the powerful 250-kilovolt x-ray machines in which the high tension current is supplied by a transformer.

All these machines produce rays so powerful that the concrete walls of the rooms have to be made extra thick. This is needed to protect the workers in rooms adjacent to the one in which powerful rays are being generated. These rays can now go right through a patient's body and out the other side. All way in the past the problem has been to get enough rays into a tumor to kill the cancer cells, without at the same time burning the person's skin.

In recent years x-ray men, to some extent, have got around this difficulty by sending the rays in through several little "ports of entry," squares marked on the skin with a violet pencil. One day, one is used, and the next day another is used.

Now, a patient with a tumor in certain parts of the body sits on a stool which is rotated so that the rays keep going into his body through a band of skin. This new technique enables the expert to expose the tumor cells to a dose of rays so powerful that some cancers, formerly incurable, are now melting away.

A while ago, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. H. F. Hare and his associates, working with the new techniques at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in Cambridge, reported what look like "three-year-cures" of many persons with inoperable and formerly hopeless cancers.

The doctors do not speak of cures because the new techniques have not been in use long enough, but their results are thrilling and most encouraging. For instance, 20 of 23 cancers of the larynx, or voice-box, seem to have been cured; also, 20 of 43 cancers of the lung, and 38 of 59 cancers of the thyroid gland. At last there is hope for some of those persons who formerly were doomed.

Now, in the Argonne Hospital in Chicago, the doctors will be able to compare in one institute the effects of treatment with rays from the several new sources to see if any one of them is decidedly better than the others. Dr. Hare has now gone to Los Angeles to carry on his fine work there.

A NEW TYPE OF ANESTHETIC

At the recent meeting of the American Medical Association, in San Francisco, my old friend, Dr. John Lindy, of the Mayo Clinic, described a remarkable new anesthetic which, while it blocks out the pain of an operation, leaves the patient awake. Such an anesthetic can be helpful sometimes when the surgeon wants the patient to cooperate with him in some way, as the operative work is being done.

A PAGE-TURNER FOR THE BADLY CRIPPLED

At the meeting of the American Medical Association, I saw an interesting bit of apparatus which enables a badly crippled person to turn over the page of the book he is reading. It should be a great boon to those persons with an arthritis so bad that they cannot get much use out of their hands.

Sometimes such persons who cannot sit up must read with the help of prisms which will bend the light rays so that they will go comfortably through the person's glasses and down into the eyes.

The prize list now is available and shows 658 separate competitions in 19 sections. Cash prizes will be given in all classes.

Rotarians Plan Annual Sale at Qualicum Beach

QUALICUM BEACH — Members of the Rotary Club here will launch their community-wide drive Tuesday for donations to the annual Rotary auction to be held August 7. Objective is $2,000. Proceeds from the sale will be used to aid club community projects. Last year it consisted of building a picnic and children's playground on the beach front adjoining the parking space by the war memorial, and building a seawall.

The job has just been completed.

Previous auctions here have produced a flood of donations ranging from motorboats, cars, and furniture to electrical appliances, rugs and curtains. The auction will be held in the community hall here.

Cafe Proprietors Capture Intruder

NANAIMO (CP) — Robert William Cochrane of no fixed address was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts after he was seized by two Chinese proprietors of a cafe here.

Cochrane, who had a record of previous convictions, was convicted of breaking and entering and theft.

In the struggle, the accused lost two teeth and one of the proprietors, Henry Wong, had one broken.

Farmer Remanded on Manslaughter Charge

DUNCAN — Henry Robinson, 61-year-old Cowichan Lake Road farmer, charged with manslaughter in connection with the shooting of his wife Wednesday evening, was remanded Thursday to July 29.

He appeared before Magistrate W. H. Bryant. A preliminary hearing will be held at the later date.

Robinson was represented by H. L. Henderson, Victoria. His request for bail was refused, but may be reconsidered next week.

The tragedy occurred at the Robinson farm Wednesday evening. It is understood Mr. Rob-

July 1 Show Made Profit Of $500

DUNCAN — A profit of about $500 was realized from the 11th annual Dominion Day celebration here, the Community Centre Association was told Wednesday.

G. P. MacMillan, manager, said that only adverse weather conditions had prevented a record out-of-town crowd this year, and that the committee had been fortunate no rain fell throughout July 1. About 8,000 had attended.

Proceeds will be used to pay part of the cost of a board fence to go around the association's 14-acre grounds at Trans-Canada Highway and James Street, George H. Savage, fence chairman, said working parties could start next week.

All lumber required has been paid for, with service clubs donating most of the money required. Clubmen volunteers will erect the fence working in rotation.

After a report from Pat Clackson, swimming pool chairman, it was decided nothing could be done to launch a pool project until some decision had been reached on a new hospital in the Duncan area or at Cowichan Lake. A new hospital here would take priority over any other community project, the association decided.

Water Scheme In Chemainus Authorized

CHEMAINUS — The proposed new water scheme for Chemainus moved another step forward following a special meeting of North Cowichan Council. The agreement dealing with the present water system and the suggested waterworks scheme for Chemainus, arranged between the municipality and MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., Chemainus Division, was accepted by the council.

A copy of this agreement, together with the proposed by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers, will be presented to the Department of Municipal Affairs for approval.

Draft of the by-law designed to provide fire protection service to the south end of the municipality was approved, and will be presented for passage at a future meeting of council, as will a by-law to provide adequate water supply for Maple Bay.

Nanaimo Drivers Form District Traffic Council

NANAIMO — Formation of a district traffic association here, similar to those of Colwood and Port Alberni, has brought about an improvement in incidence of traffic accidents.

It was created following examinations taken by 64 truck drivers and heavy equipment operators — after a five-week course in safe driving, repairs, and traffic regulations given by Robert Swanson, chief railway inspector, and William Tyler.

Robert Petersen is president of the group and George Ward vice-president. Roy Spencer is secretary and treasurer is Allan Dynes. Honorary members are Mr. Swanson, Mr. Tyler, Dr. Giovando, M.L.A.; and Staff Sgt. A. M. Hutchinson and Cpl. E. M. Malins of the RCMP.

Axes Sharpened for Sports

Loggers' sports at All-Sooke Day consistently attract leading Vancouver Island and mainland contenders. In picture at top is Alan Woodrow, Courtenay, who won chopping championship at Sooke last year just before posing for picture above with three-year-old daughter, Debby. Another champion axeman is Mandus Michaelson, lower right. With him are J. Greenhalgh, left, and Eric Michaelson, checking a girth of log for hand-bucking contest. Annual celebration and sports will be held on Sooke River flats again Saturday, when tree climbing, log birling and children's sports will be on program. Refreshments will include famous barbecued salmon, beef. Sponsor is Sooke Community Association.

Island Farmers Buck New Milk Quota Plan

Year's Delay Demanded at Nanaimo Hearing;
Opinion Split on Other Milk Board Changes

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island milk producers approved one of three changes in milk regulations suggested by the B.C. Milk Board, agreed with a second "with clarification," and flatly opposed a third.

The dairymen, through their spokesman, Henry G. Robinson, secretary-manager of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, expressed their views at a milk board hearing here.

It was the suggestion that producers be required to supply their full quota during each pay period that drew the most emphatic opposition.

"It is far too soon to contemplate a change of this nature," Mr. Robinson said. "This is the first summer of operation of Milk Board quotas, the main purpose of which are to encourage winter production."

WAIT ONE YEAR

"Let us wait and see what happens for another year before making any such change," he said.

"The number of producers who drop below the quota is small," he said. "Quite frankly, we look upon them with favor. Their under-shipments are divided out among others, and they certainly are not unpopular with the rest of the producers."

"One of the major reasons why so many producer-vendors gave up their licenses and became shippers was because they no longer have to maintain an absolutely steady supply of milk the year round," Mr. Robinson said. "If they have to do it anyway, they will certainly want their licenses back."

"The present quota orders are evening up supply," he said. "Leave them alone until we see what happens."

GIVEN APPROVAL

Another board suggestion, that basic quotas be brought more in line with whole milk requirements, was approved by the producers.

A third proposal, that "where primary producers in any area during any basic term supply sufficient milk for the whole

U.S. BREAD TO VANCOUVER MAY BE STOPPED

VANCOUVER (C.P.)—Householders here soon may feel the first real effects of the two-week-old strike-lock-out of Vancouver and Nanaimo bakers.

Tom Alsbury, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, said a meeting with American trade union officials in Seattle Thursday may stop shipments of U.S. bread to Vancouver.

Until now, bread trucked in from Seattle and Bellingham, with increased output from small city independents, has prevented a bread "famine."

"Seattle trade unions say they will allow no more bread to be exported while united labor is supporting the bakery workers' reasonable demands," said Mr. Alsbury.

Workers Move to Settle Saanich Wage Wrangle

Council Approval Seen for New Scale

Wage strife between Saanich municipal workers and the council soon may be settled.

Saanich Municipal Employees' Association (TLC) has approved a 3 per cent wage boost, retroactive to January 1, with a minimum four-cent-an-hour increase for outside workers.

The proposal is now awaiting council approval. Expectation is that the council will settle for the new terms. The workers earlier applied for a strike vote, but this move was dropped.

The recommendation also provides for the union to consult with the municipal clerk and department heads on the matter of reclassifying some members of the inside staff.

The dispute has been under way since early in the year.

Liquor Rationing Ends in Sweden After 38 Years

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Revision of the Swedish liquor laws, which will take effect Oct. 1, 1955, abolishes rationing, which has been in effect since 1916 and eases restaurant restrictions.

Under the new laws, any Swede over 21 will be able to purchase as much liquor as he likes. There will be no restrictions on consumption of spirits in restaurants, although the customer still will have to buy a sandwich with his drink.

Swedish beer, which has an alcohol content of only 2.8 per cent, is sold without restrictions.

BCE Engineer Joins Canada Atom Project

VANCOUVER (C.P.)—A young British Columbia Electric Company engineer, 36-year-old William M. Walker of Vancouver, has been named to the Chalk River, Ont., nuclear project.

He will conduct research into applying atomic energy to industry.

BCE president A. E. Grauer said Thursday Mr. Walker will be on loan from the company for about two years.

Vancouver's Rattler Proves 3 Harmless Garter Snakes

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The case of an immense and deadly "rattlesnake" that threw panic into the hearts of West End Vancouverites Thursday turned out to be the story of three harmless garter snakes out on the town.

The snake scare began when Mrs. Robert Milne was confronted at her back door by what she thought was "a rattlesnake as thick around as a post and five feet long."

The reptile slithered away to the tune of Mrs. Milne's screams and was seen several hours later by two passers-by.

Two police officers, an SPCA man, zoo curator Alan Best and two of his aides combed the area. The officials' search ended when the belly mark of a snake was found. Best said it was that of a garter snake.

Then the mother of Hugo De Vries, 18, heard about the search.

Thursday night's audience attending the third Victoria Symphony Orchestra concert in the Butchart Gardens constituted a pretty emphatic repudiation of the City Council's attitude of indifference toward activities of this nature.

A near record crowd of 2,700 flocked to the gardens which are now at the height of their impressive beauty, occupying practically every foot of space on the wide lawns facing the orchestra shell.

Following musical director, Hans Gruber's appeal to the loyalty of the public in last Saturday's Times, it was doubly thrilling to witness this great turnout, and to realize too, that the tremendous undertaking of the 'Gardens' owner-manager, Ian Ross, in making the concert possible, is proving worth while.

SIGHT, SOUND, SCENT
Despite an un-summery summer, the weather itself has been loyal to Gardens and Orchestra, conferring on each occasion a balmy evening to add to the pleasure of sight, sound and scent. In any event, a wind other than what comes out of a brass or wood tube, ever seems to enter this favored spot.

The program last night afforded opportunity to observe the necessary qualities of leaders of sections of the orchestra who were presented as soloists. A Weber composition for clarinet and orchestra featured Howard Denke. This was a graceful and fluent performance, firm in its artistry and thoroughly knowledgeable in every musical detail.

Playing a Saint-Saens "Prelude for Horn," Hans Stelzner, French hornist, demonstrated once again his unique mastery over that most difficult and temperamental of instruments. Tonal nuances and intricate technical passages were accomplished with superb skill.

The third soloist was an old friend of Victoria Symphony fans, Maurice Crawford's brilliant as a flutist has, almost from the beginning, been a distinction to the orchestra. He performed a rather brief, but extremely atmospheric piece by modern American composer, Purit and steadiness of tone, beautifully proportioned phrases and a limpid style made this a small impressionistic piece completely delightful.

COMPULSIVELY VITAL

As accompanist to all three artists, Gruber and the orchestra showed a thorough understanding of that role, maintaining a fine balance and constituting a corporate but non-intrusive part of the whole.

Strauss' "Die Fledermaus" overture was the opening number and this went with a gay swing, the rhythm being vital and compulsive, the contrasts clearly defined.

Major work of the evening was Beethoven's ineffably lovely "Pastoral" Symphony No. 6 in F Major. It is difficult to imagine more ideal circumstances under which to perform this, the only Beethoven Symphony to have been given a definite program by the composer.

Lights glowing softly among the trees and stars showing overhead made it a memorable experience whose repetition another year is to be much desired. Most satisfying of the four movements, was the Andante, "By the Brook" and the rollicking Allegro, "A Jolly Gathering of Country Folk". The storm section lacked something of the sweep and awful majesty of a Beethoven tempest, but the return to serenity and a mood of happy thankfulness was quite well established as the Symphony drew to its close.

One more concert remains to be played, in this Butchart

Gardens series. Next Thursday, as a finale, a program of gently light classics, designed to appeal to the broadest possible strata of public taste, has been selected.

With an even larger attendance anticipated, there is still no need for anyone to stay away for fear of traffic problems. New approaches, new parking facilities and expert handling have eliminated bottle-necks and tie-ups this year.

IN REFORMATORY

Strap Claimed Reason for Man's Suicide

GUELPH, Ont. (BUP)—A Guelph jury returned a verdict of death by self-inflicted strangulation Thursday night in the case of a reformatory inmate who died in his solitary confinement cell, but his mother insisted he killed himself rather than be strapped again.

The jury attached no blame in its verdict to reformatory officials or staff members.

Lt. Col. Gerald Wright, superintendent of the reformatory, testified he thought Ralph Jacobs, 18, of Stratford, had planned an act of pseudo-suicide hoping he would be moved to a mental hospital, but that he accidentally hanged himself.

Jacobs, who was serving a long term for breaking and entering and auto theft, had attempted to escape and was strapped and given 10 days confinement.

Another prisoner, Peter Donachie, testified that Jacobs had heard he was to receive nine more strokes and announced he would "do anything" rather than take the strap again.

UNIQUE ACT

The Ontario legislature in 1935 passed an act making the Dionne quintuplets wards of the province — until they reached the age of 18 — to prevent exploitation.

JAIL TRUCK'S ANTI-FREEZE KILLS INMATE

REGINA (C.P.)—A prisoner of Regina jail died after drinking anti-freeze, a coroner's jury ruled on Thursday night.

Edward Greenlaw, 17, died in Regina General Hospital June 29. The anti-freeze apparently was drained from the cooling system of one of the jail's vehicles.

The jury recommended a physician be called in immediately when a prisoner becomes ill. Witnesses testified Greenlaw was not taken to hospital for seven hours after he showed signs of illness.

Blind, Aged Among 400 Entertained During Summer at Sunshine Camp

Sunshine Camp on the shores of Sooke basin has a busy schedule this summer, and this week has been playing host to 45 blind vacationers at the 15th annual Canadian National Institute of the Blind summer camp.

By the time the season ends, close to 400 persons will enjoy holidays which would otherwise be financially difficult. The camp is owned by the Family and Children's Service, a Community Chest project.

August 27 to September 1 will feature a special camp for handicapped children, planned by a committee from the Royal Jubilee Hospital and the city health office. Parents will holiday with their children.

To date this year camps have been held for old age pensioners and still to come are two family camps and a girls' camp.

Visitors are billeted in 15 cabins, each cabin sponsored by a service group or other organization.

Attendance at the camp is not free but a sliding scale of fees ensures no one pays more than he or she can afford.

A new $15,000 administration building was recently completed with volunteer labor from the carpenters' union and other union groups.

By BILL WALKER

"Pat Fletcher is a credit to Victoria, not only as a golfer, but as an individual. He is a gentleman through and through."

That coming from another golf professional is the acme of praise for a sportsman who last week enabled Victoria to share a small speck of the glory that today belongs to Pat Fletcher.

For Pat, who on Saturday became the first Canadian since 1912 to win the Canadian Open golf championship and who once called Victoria home, was also Phil Taylor's favorite caddy.

And it was Phil, the venerable tactician of the fundamentals that sent Pat on his way, who thus described Canada's golfer of the moment.

The road to glory that Pat traversed to his present pinnacle had its beginning when he and his brother, Hugh, caddied at the Oak Bay Course.

Came the summer of 1937, in his veins. And it was no oddity that the Totem Pole tournament at Jasper happened to be scheduled as the urge reached its peak.

Golf rules being what they are, and Pat being over 21 years of age at the time, his caddy duties in that tournament, and previously, caused him to be classed as a professional.

On noting that the Alberta Open was scheduled shortly thereafter, Pat must have decided that being this far away from home, another few miles wouldn't do him any harm.

Modest Beginning

The modest sum of $20 he received for his efforts in the open was the added inspiration he needed, and when Tommy Harrison, Mayfair's professional, took a liking to him and offered him a position as assistant pro the next season, Pat jumped in the nearest bunker with both feet.

Three years at Mayfair with Harrison was rewarded with an appointment to the professional post at Edmonton Golf and Country Club.

The Highlands Golf Club at Edmonton was his next port of call and this tenure lasted until 1946 when he took his present position at the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club. After that, Pat's name kept appearing in press dispatches from time to time, and were duly recorded, but only that. And it wasn't until 1952 that suddenly he rocketed into particular fame by winning the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association title.

Last year the inference should have been obvious that herein may lie Canada's hope to end the long drought that has existed since Karl Kaffer of Ottawa won the Open in 1912. But it wasn't even when Fletcher was low Canadian in the field and even had a lower medal score than his title-winning effort of 280 at Point Grey last week.

And this year even, Pat was still wandering about in the shadow caused by Stan Leonard's CPGA victory at Edmonton the previous week when the field teed off for the Open. But when the sun came out Leonard was nowhere to be seen and Fletcher had quietly slipped into the lens.

As a matter of fact, Pat's reticent nature is such that it was his wish that his visit to Victoria Sunday last be that, and nothing more. He was gone practically before anyone knew he was here.

And Why Not?

The proudest person in town this week? That's easy. It's Mrs. Fletcher, Pat's mother.

"I'm so proud, I really am," she said. "But Pat didn't tell me much. He's like that. He's always been."

The glory road leads to gold for Pat now and invitations are out, and believed accepted, for the Tam O'Shanter tourneys at Chicago, the All-American running through Aug. 5-8 and the world championships Aug. 12-15.

Then follows the Labatt Open at Scarborough Aug. 23-28.

Meanwhile, those likeable youngsters, Dot Herbertson and Shirley Fry, have been doing themselves proud at Shaughnessy in the B.C. Ladies Closed. Dot is now a sure bet for interprovincial recognition with Shirley bound to rate consideration.

Locally, the next and final championship meet of the season is the Northwest Seniors' at Victoria Club Aug. 9-13. Ralph Whaley is still the man to beat, be it golf, archery or axe throwing. And for Sundays far there's the Uplands final between Frank Seroggs and Bernie Rogers. Sorry Bernie, you're the chap who has to prove us wrong.

Shriners brought Patterson (centre) into the Gizeh fold for the occasion by capping him with the traditional fez. Shrine members and the Gizeh Band will be in attendance tonight when Victoria Tyees return home for the first

Program will start at 7.15, with the two WIL teams meeting at 8. YANKS SIGN BRANCA

'Case' Has Faith in Ralph

By FRED DOWN

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Ralph Branca, the old Dodger, has found a new home with the New York Yankees because Casey Stengel believes "he's still a good pitcher."

The 28-year-old right-hander, released July 11 by the fourth-place Detroit Tigers, hooked on with the second-place Yankees yesterday after displaying his pitching wares for Stengel during three days of pitching batting practice.

Manager Stengel was optimistic about Branca's future in a "magic" New York uniform—not profusely enthusiastic, but calmly and reservedly optimistic.

"We picked him up because he's still strong and he's still a good pitcher," said Stengel. "We think maybe he can win a couple of games for us."

Stengel indicated that the former Dodger, famous as the pitcher who served up the home run ball to Bobby Thomson of the Giants in the playoff game that decided the 1951 National League pennant, will be given some time to get used to his new uniform.

"I doubt if he's in shape right now, though, because he hasn't been pitching enough," explained Stengel. "Sometime when we're way ahead or way behind, we'll put him in and see how he does."

Branca, a tall 210-pounder, had a record of three wins and three losses with the Tigers this year. His overall major-league record is 83 victories and 61 defeats.

"I'm glad to be here," said Branca simply. The native of nearby Mount Vernon, N.Y., who is a graduate of New York University, grinned and added: "I took me 11 years to get here, but I finally made it."

Derby Ready to Roll; Prize List Completed

Anglers-Times Solarium Event Scheduled Sunday

The biggest one-day fishing derby of the year and the biggest event in its own individual derby history—the Anglers-Times Solarium fishfest—is ready to roll in Saanich Inlet Sunday.

Two-Day Fishoff Likely

Ladder Officials Call General Meeting

A two-day fishoff is a distinct possibility in the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers ladder derby competition this year.

This was indicated Thursday night when the VSA executive ordered an extraordinary meeting of the membership be called to discuss the matter.

The meeting will be held next Thursday night at the Liberal Hall, 1322 A Government St., at 8.30.

The ladder derby committee will recommend to the membership that a two-day derby be adopted because of a shortage of boats for the 500 finalists.

"We must cater to our own membership," said Andy Anderson, VSAIA president and ladder-derby chairman, and, as under the present plan we are unable to accommodate them in a one-day fishoff (as originally planned), it is only right that they decide the matter themselves."

Speaking on behalf of the boatmen, Harry Peard of the Anchorage said:

"As far as we're concerned, it's a shortage of boats. All my boats now are taken for the fishoff and if any one of my regular customers qualify in the remaining time, I won't be able to accommodate them." Three weeks remain in the ladder derby.

Under the two-day fishoff plan, qualifiers in the ladder derby will be given the choice of fishing days prior to the fishoff. The final fishoff is now scheduled for August 22. The proposal that will be put to the membership is that Saturday, August 21, be the other day.

Last Canadian Fades From Men's Net Scene

BY GARY SMITH

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Men's and women's singles in the Canadian tennis championships have reached the semifinals. The women moved into the spotlight today while the men rested up for their matches Saturday.

In one semifinal bracket, Bernard Bartzen, United States clay courts champion and No. 1 foreign seed in the tournament, was scheduled to face Atsushi Miyagi, Japanese Davis Cupper who is No. 4 in the foreign seedings.

Bartzen stopped Chile's Ricardo Balbieri in straight sets Thursday 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, and ruled as a strong favorite to defeat Miyagi, conqueror of Canada's Bob Bedard in the quarterfinals Thursday.

Miyagi stopped Bedard, No. 2 Canadian player, in four sets, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1. Bedard was the last Canadian in the running for the men's singles crown.

Andres Hammarsley of Chile, who stopped Andy Paton of Ann Arbor, Mich., in straight sets Thursday, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4, squares off against Kosei Kamo of Japan in the other men's semifinal match Saturday.

Hammarsley is No. 7 in the foreign seedings and Kamo, who belted Chilean champion Luis Ayala in a surprising straight set conquest Thursday, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, is the third-seeded foreigner in the tournament.

Today's women's semifinal pairing—pits Melita Ramirez Castro of Mexico, defending champion and first seed foreigner, against Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., in one match, and Ethel Norton of San Antonio, Tex., against Canada's remaining hope for a singles title: Mrs. Hilde Doltschell of Toronto.

CANADIAN CRICKETERS OPEN ENGLISH TOUR

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian touring cricket team, opening its 17-match schedule in Britain, today had claimed three wickets for 140 runs after two hours of play against Hampstead, a north London minor club.

Toiling on a pitch that favored the batsmen, Canadian bowlers Brian Christen of Toronto, Hal Padmore of Verdun, Que., and Bill Hendy of Vancouver each took a wicket, but the hard-hitting Hampsteads soon had the visitors in difficulty. Chief troublemaker was C. F. Winn, who had scored 67 not out at the lunch interval.

In a last-minute substitution, Harry Bullen of Calgary replaced John Lucas of Montreal on the Canadian side. Lucas hurt a knuckle in practice Thursday and will have X-rays taken.

DOUBLE IN SIGHT

Dot Reaches Golf Finals

Dorothy Herbertson of Gorge Vale Club shoots for a golfing double today.

The 19-year-old starlet, who on Monday won the B.C. Junior ladies' championship, today meets Miss Ruth Wilson of Vancouver in the 36-hole final of the B.C. Ladies' Closed championships.

Miss Herbertson Thursday defeated Mrs. Helen Cleat of Vancouver, 2 and 1, in a semifinal match while Miss Wilson, tournament medalist, advanced to the finals with a 3 and 2 triumph over Mrs. William Knox of Vancouver.

Miss Herbertson phoned the glad tidings to her folks on Thursday, but was so excited at the time she neglected to reveal the score.

She was B.C. junior champion last year and runner-up to Miss Shirley Fry of Gorge Vale two years ago.

Today's final against Miss Wilson marks the first time Miss Herbertson has advanced to this stage in major competition.

'MY HUSBAND ALWAYS PULLS IT OFF' Mendes-France's Pretty Wife His Most Ardent Supporter

PARIS (Reuters)—A slim, pretty woman, with streaks of grey in her dark hair stood beaming proudly at the airport here today and said: "My husband always pulls it off."
Lily Mendes-France stood among the cheering crowd waiting to give a hero's welcome to her husband, Premier Pierre Mendes-France, as he arrived home from Geneva after achieving the most cherished desire of 40,000,000 Frenchmen—peace in Indo-China.
When the plane door opened, the 47-year-old premier paused, sought her out among the crowd, clasped her head in his hands, ran his fingers through her hair and kissed her eagerly.
Waiting for the plane to land she talked gaily with reporters. "Throughout our marriage," she told them, "he has always been successful—he is so strong and has so much common sense."
When Pierre phoned to tell her a settlement had been achieved, she said: "I told him how pleased I was because if an end is put to a bad thing it is always a source for joy."
"But," Egyptian-born Lily Mendes-France added, "Pierre had no joy in his heart."
"As always," he felt he had merely obtained the best possible conditions in the solution of a difficult problem.

"LUCKY ME" (Royal)
This Warner Bros. wide-screen color-musical makes one wonder if hit tune composers aren't more vanishing than the Armenians.
It wasn't so very long ago that most hit tunes came from the sound tracks. Remember the days when Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers danced to "fame"? Many of their scores were written by men like Cole Porter and Irving Berlin. You can still hear them over the air waves, tunes like "A Fine Romance," "The Carioca," "Cheek to Cheek" and so on. There were the wonderful scores for the Crosby shows, for the rash of showbiz shows like "The Goldiggers," "The Big Broadcast," tunes for the likes of the Ritz Brothers, "He Ain't Got Rhythm," "Slummin' On Park Avenue," and the still popular, "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm."

EVEN THE WAR YEARS produced some good original scores. But since the war the musicals have been noted for their tuneful mediocrity. The last ones we remember as excellent came from the Gene Kelly star.

Sunday Beacon Hill Concerts in August; City, Musicians Agree on 3-for-1 Price

There will be some Sunday band concerts after all. City council Thursday agreed to accept an offer from the Victoria local of the Musicians' Mutual Protective Union which will provide three Sunday afternoon band concerts in Beacon Hill Park for the price of one. The union informed council that it was prepared to give one free concert no matter what, but that if the city wanted to pay for one, it would throw in a second free one. Council, which earlier this year decided it could not afford band concerts, considered the new offer too good a bargain out of its contingency fund. The concerts will be arranged at the $212 cost of the one concert for three Sundays in August.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

It appears the one-way streets went thataway, pardner. But I can't understand what all the fuss is about. People rarely go more than one way at a time.

A news item announces: "A multi-million-dollar merger of two B.C. Home furnishing firms has linked up with a Victoria carpet industry to result in the formation of the first combination company of its kind in Canada."

I underwear they got the idea?

It is also reported that Ed Fisher, a Miami diver, dropped into the sea off Key Largo Thursday and went down 30 feet to the ocean floor in an effort to become the first man to go on an overnight camping trip under water.

This is, no doubt, a splendid ambition, but I doubt Mr. Fisher will be the first man ever to spend a night in a dive.

The Mayor of Toronto has responded nobly to criticisms of "secret" meetings with the controllers, at which the press was barred.

Now he won't even talk to one controller in private. He demands that a reporter be present whenever a controller asks him a question.

If a controller walks into the mayor's office and asks: "How are you today, Mr. Mayor?" the mayor summons a press conference before answering.

I am not sure how long this will last, or who will be worn out first, the mayor, the controllers, or the reporters. But at least it is refreshing to note the mayor of Toronto endorses the principle of conducting public business in public.

Any chance of the idea spreading?

Too bad Phil Harris didn't get to Victoria. I was looking forward to meeting him. Always have liked people who are a little fake.

If the petition to change the name of Johnson Street is successful, does this mean all 200-plus Johnsons who live in Victoria will have to change their names, too?

I should think this would annoy every Johnson in town, from A. T. to W.

And even the Johnsons would be a little annoyed, too.

Victoria Branch, 27th City of Winnipeg Battalion Association, will hold a basket-picnic on the afternoon and evening of August 8 at the home of W. J. Shepherd, 1242 Judge Place. Entertainment, tea and coffee will be provided. Transportation for those without cars may be obtained by calling Mr. Shepherd at 2-2964.

Dr. N. T. Johnson, 1024 Transit, has been elected regional representative to the executive council of B.C. Optometric Association for 1954-55.

Badoo Singh, 312 Cadillac, pleaded guilty to Saanich police charges that he drank a bottle of beer in his car on the highway and was fined $30 or 30 days in court Thursday.

S. A. Muir, president of the Victoria Labor Council (CCL), has been delegated to attend a July 26 conference at Vancouver on the proposed B.C. bus fare increases. The main land parcel is being sponsored by the B.C. Federation of Labor (CCL). The council will have a delegate at the August 5 public hearing in Victoria.

Henry Thomas Lyus, 1277 Oscar, has completed successfully examinations qualifying him as a graduate jeweller, the board of governors of the Canadian Jewellers' Institute announces. Graduation exercises will be held October 6 at Ryerson Institute of Technology, Toronto.

The old adage "There is no honor among thieves" was proven again Thursday when someone violated the new honor system parking lot, Civic Parking Centre, on Blanshard Street. Co-operate Jack Philion, told police three coin boxes were taken. The self-park-self-pay system has just been in operation about a week. Early reports from the operators were that "... 95 per cent are honest."

Mrs. Mary Collinson, passenger in her husband's car which turned over after a collision at Bay and Shelbourne Thursday, is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today. Herbert Thomas Collinson, 65, 1560 Clive, was also taken to hospital by city police but was released after examination.

The couple escaped serious injury when in collision with one driven by James Brierlie, 127 Bushby, who was unhurt. Damage to both cars was medium.

People who live in Glass Houses have many advantages. (a) They get lots of sunlight. (b) They never have termites. (c) Because their neighbors can see everything they do, they can't take baths. This is the principal advantage as people take too many baths. Baths wash away protective oils in the skin and leave us prey to germs and secret cosmic rays from Outer Space. All this talk about bathing is propaganda put out by the Soap and Wash Rag Trusts. My cousin Stanley was always healthy until he was 23 and the Sheriff asked him to take a bath (the other pupils in the 7th Grade were complaining). It was his first bath and the ring around the tub got so thick it sealed Stanley in. We had to use dynamite to get him out and he's been nervous and jumpy ever since.

Hordes of mosquitoes equipped with well-honed drills for bite-and-run attacks will soon be on the prowl in Victoria.

While the pests are in season now, weather conditions in the past few weeks should bring them out in unusual large numbers, according to entomologists.

They predict a "tremendous increase" in the mosquito army within the next month.

Words of wisdom from world champion long-distance swimmer Florence Chadwick were passed on to young student swimmers at the Y.M.C.A. pool today and Thursday. Miss Chadwick visited the pool to chat with coach Archie McKinnon and members of the Sidney and Keating and Saanichton swim groups. Telling youngsters of her own experiences as a youngster, Miss Chadwick said the tyros are fortunate to have such an excellent coach as McKinnon. Both swimming groups, part of the extensive training program of the Y, have advanced to their sixth lesson. Miss Chadwick is seen here sitting with members of the Saanichton and Keating groups. With her are Y.M.C.A. representatives Denis Humphries and Viv Shoemaker and Mrs. F. Edgell and Mrs. J. Allen, in charge of the Saanichton and Keating youngsters. Coach McKinnon is at the right. $30,000 Factory To Use Crofton Slag

Sand-Blasting Abrasive for Shipyard Use To Be Manufactured By City Syndicate

Production of sand blasting abrasive from a granulated copper slag at Crofton, may mean a saving of thousands of dollars annually by local ship-building industries.

The slag, which has been untouched since Britannia Copper Syndicate closed Crofton refinery, near Duncan, in 1908, has been owned by local interests for several years.

They now plan to refine the material for use by local industry. Plans call for construction of a $30,000 plant to grade the material so it can be used in various types of sand blasting, particularly ship's hulls, in removing scale and paint.

At present, sand must be imported from California at heavy cost in order to allow time-saving sand blasting. Until recently, hulls were scraped and chipped clean by hand.

The first charge was dropped due to lack of evidence and the absence of the complainant. Byatt pleaded guilty to the other two counts.

Byatt was caught by police in one of the cars in Nanaimo and returned here Thursday. The court was told that he had twice before been convicted of buying cars with worthless cheques and had a long record of other offenses in Port Alberni and Vancouver since 1948.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded the accused to Monday.

Bloomer Girls Pay Yearly Visit

Tanned girls in sky-blue middie and bloomers seen on city streets today are off a sea-blue 54-foot yawl anchored in the Inner Harbor from the Four Winds girls' camp on Orcas Island.

This marks the 26th year the camp girls have visited Victoria. They window shop, buy antiques, tea at the Empress and ride in the horse-drawn trolley. There are nearly 80 here this year; some arrived aboard the yawl and others by ferry. They are staying at University School. The group leaves Sunday.

PORTAGE INLET MOSQUITOES HONE STINGERS FOR ANNUAL BLOODFEAST

Hungry Hordes Poise for Bite-and-Run Attacks on Victorians

Two types of mosquitoes exist in Victoria — the fresh water and salt water varieties. The salt species is by far the most common and vicious in this area. It is larger than its fresh water cousin and is equipped with a longer sting. It breeds by the millions in shallow pools by the sea. Mosquitoes travel far afield from their breeding grounds. Assisted by air currents they will travel for miles inshore.

This sometimes gives rise to the erroneous belief that they breed in long-grass. It isn't so. The mosquitoes' breeding home are ponds, sloughs and other quiet waters. One of the worst breeding areas for mosquitoes in Victoria is Portage Inlet with its shallow waters and pools. Ten-to-one if a person is bitten by one at Royal Oak or Mount Douglas, the pest came from this area. Authorities said this breeding ground could easily be brought under control with new insecticides.

Many people are extremely allergic to mosquito bites. The pests spoil the fun of bathers, holiday makers, country week-enders and families living in summer cottages. Some individuals, however, seem to be immune to the pests.

While there is no evidence that mosquitoes in Canada carry diseases harmful to human beings, the pests in warmer countries spread deadly infections. In the Prairie provinces, they are known to carry a disease harmful to cattle, but so far humans have not been affected.

Entomologists suggest the following offensive and defensive measures against the pest.

Theft Trial Bares Logging On Arsenal Site

LeBrun Responsible, Logger Tells Court

An independent Sooke logging operator, Lloyd Hansen testified in RCMP court today that Phillip LeBrun, ex-forman at Rocky Point arsenal, had instructed him to cut and sell lumber from the project.

LeBrun, about 35, was charged July 15, with theft of over-15,000-board feet of timber from the federal government defense project.

A preliminary hearing before Magistrate A. I. Thomas is in its second day and authorities say it may not end before early next week. The prosecution is expected to call about 20 witnesses.

The accused, free on $2,000 bail, is represented by W. H. M. Haldane, Q.C. The crown's case is being presented by Sooke RCMP constable Peter Humphries.

The defense lawyer stated Thursday that his client, but timber on the crown property in order to get fill (road construction earth) from the closest source and save costs.

Defense Construction Ltd. engineer, Col. William A. Townley, maintained that the timbered area did not contain suitable materials. He described the timber stand as "camouflaged" for the arsenal.

Lawyer Haldane drew the admission from Col. Townley that he did not dig pits to find if the fill were there but based his conclusions on surface indications.

The defense lawyer told Magistrate Thomas that Col. Townley "... is trying to establish the guilt of the accused—and that's none of his business."

Today, Hansen said that LeBrun told him the trees would have to be burned if not otherwise disposed of. "He said they belonged to Bennett and White (LeBrun's employers at the time) and he had authority to do as he liked with them. I was to have trucks there and haul them away to a mill."

Hansen said he hauled five loads on the first day of a long weekend, which was the only time a project derrick could be obtained for loading. "The logs were sold to Dalziel's Mill."

Saanich Rejects Hike, Bus Cuts Approved

Saanich Council's transportation committee went on record Thursday night as being opposed to B.C. Electric's proposed hike in bus fares. At the same time the committee agreed the company's request for a reduction in service was justified.

Since the committee represents a majority of the council, it is now virtually assured Saanich will line up with Victoria and Esquimalt in opposing higher transit fares. Council will be asked to ratify the committee's decision at its next meeting, Monday night.

City solicitor Arthur Patton is already at work preparing a brief against higher fares which will be presented to the Public Utilities Commission. The Saanich group indicated it believed the municipality should ally itself with this brief through the Greater Victoria Transportation Committee.

The Saanich group were informed by R. B. Matthews, B.C. Electric vice-president, that if the company was not permitted to reduce existing service it would, have to apply for a higher increase in tariffs than the three-cent increase it now proposes.

DAREDEVILS BEG CHANCE TO SHOW MOTORBIKE SKILL

There is a display of motorcycle stunt riding going on in Victoria. Twenty-five riders from Calgary of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals are willing to put on their intricate act for any worthwhile group, free of charge.

The riders do precision drill, figures of eight, "weave" and ladder rides. They are here training for the B.E.G. Needed for the display is a grassy area about 40 by 80 yards. Any groups interested can contact Capt. R. E. Macintosh at 2-3121, local 37.

Local Wine Firm Plans Expansion

Contract Near $75,000 To Be Let Shortly

Growers' Wine Co. Ltd. plans a major expansion of its Lake Hill plant, it was learned today. A contract in the neighborhood of $75,000 is being awarded.

It is understood Parfitt Construction Co. will carry out the work.

The expansion is believed to have been in the planning stage for some months, and decision to proceed with it follows the recent change in B.C.'s liquor laws and apparent reluctance of the government to import California wines.

However, the expansion at Growers may be an indication that the government has taken a stand against importation, thus encouraging development of B.C.'s own wineries.

No building permit has yet been issued, but architect's preliminary plans have been looked over by the Saanich building inspector's office.

Managing-director of Growers is former Coalition Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb.

Four months ago it was rumored the government would lift the ban on California wines. So far there has been neither denial nor action.

AID FISH DERBY

Boxers Help Ted Duffin At Old Stand

Ed Duffin, one of the original staunch supporters of the Salarium Salmon Derby, is doing business at the old stand again today.

Ed is selling tickets for a guessing contest based on the weight of a spring-salmon. Proceeds go to the Salarium and the fish goes to the person making the most accurate estimate of its weight.

He is "in business" at Wilson & Lenfesty, 1225 Government Street, and his assistants are young boxers who he has trained in ringcraft.

They are: Gordon Rabey, former Golden Gloves 90-pound champion; Gordie McGaw, Island 85-pound champion and runner-up to the B.C. title; Brian O'Hara, Island 95-pound champion and B.C. titlist; and Bruce McLay, Island Silver Boy and runner-up to the B.C. 90-pound title.

They will be with Ed today and Saturday, selling tickets under the slogan: "Those who can, helping those who can't."

Navy to Stage Five Sunset Ceremonies

Age-Old Tradition Followed By Naden Guard Band, Gunners

The navy intends to put on a real show when it conducts sunset ceremonies here next week and early in August.

The men in blue will comprise a 48 man guard; a 45 piece brass band and will fire three 12-pound field guns over waters of the inner harbor during the impressive half-hour ceremony.

Navy personnel taking part will be the same as those on hand for sunset ceremonies at the British Empire Games.

Guards, under Lieut. K. D. Lewis, and the Naden band with Lieut. Cmdr. H. Cuthbert in charge will assemble behind the old post office and march to the Cenotaph in front of the Legislative buildings.

In charge of the field guns, to be placed on the sidewalk pointing to sea will be Lieut. D. Colegrave.

The navy plans five ceremonies starting at 8.30 p.m. July 26 and 27, and August 10, 11 and 12.

In general, only major naval bases conduct retreat ceremonies in the traditional manner and these are held in Canada only here and in Halifax.

The impressive ceremony is among the oldest in British military tradition, dating back to the mid-1500s. The ceremony as performed then is followed closely today.

Plans are being completed to use a loudspeaker system at the ceremonies to explain to the public exactly what is going on. Sentries will be posted to keep the public away from the guns. Legion of Frontiersmen will share this duty.

Following the evening rite, naval personnel will march back to the point of assembly to dismiss.

Dog Owners Warned To Purchase Licenses Or Face Prosecution

City license officials today served notice that beginning next month they will crack down on owners of unlicensed dogs.

T. G. Harris, city license collector, said a number of dogs in the city were unlicensed for the current year, and warned that after July 31 anyone found harboring a dog over the age of four months without a license would be prosecuted without further warning.

Mr. Harris called attention to the fact that persons found guilty of this offense could be subject to a $25 fine and costs.

St. John Drive Said Disappointing

St. John Ambulance Association described as "disappointing" today its recent campaign to raise $100,000 by voluntary contributions. Provincial secretary Fred Brown said in Vancouver that the amount will be approximately $60,000 by the time all the returns are in. The campaign closed July 15.

B.C. Teachers Named To Normal Staff

Education Minister Ray Wiliston today announced the appointment of two B.C. men to the staffs of the provincial normal schools.

They are Donald C. Gibbard and A. E. Loft. Mr. Gibbard formerly taught at Nanaimo, Penticton and Richmond, and will teach music at the Vancouver Normal School.

Mr. Loft, a member of the Rossland Junior-Senior High School staff, will teach English and Social Studies at the Victoria Normal School. He replaces Dr. F. H. Johnson, recently appointed co-ordinator of teacher education.

Turkish Woman Doctor Outstanding In Work With Mentally Disturbed

MONTREAL (CP)—A soft-spoken, grey-haired research worker at the Montreal Neurological Institute probably stands alone in the world as far as vocations are concerned.

Dr. Shafica Karagulla, who works under the famed neurologist Dr. Wilder Penfield, is concentrating on hallucinations and illusions that affect mental patients in her study of the human mind.

"There is no place in Canada, indeed in the world, where I could better tackle the problems of the mind," she said in an interview.

"Dr. Penfield recently made one of the greatest discoveries of the 20th century," she said. "For the first time in history, man can be made to hear voices and see visions that can be proven due to the physiological disturbance caused by an electrode which is applied to various parts of the human brain."

Dr. Karagulla, a native of Turkey, does not believe there has been an increase in mental illness in recent years. "There are no statistics to prove it."

In Edinburgh, where she studied psychiatry, Dr. Karagulla published a series of articles on mental illness. She doesn't place much value on the stock treatments that are frequently used today for mental breakdowns. "There are cases where it has actually been harmful."

With hot weather at hand, the Poultry Products Institute once more points out the importance of keeping eggs under proper conditions, if their quality is to be guarded. Keep eggs in a cool place. A refrigerator is ideal. Temperatures between 45° and 60° have been found the best for helping retain quality. Don't leave eggs in the hot car while you finish your shopping. If you must leave them on the shopping list, don't leave eggs in a hot kitchen. Eggs left at 70° to 90° F. for four days lose as much "freshness" as they will properly refrigerated in several weeks. Make sure your dealer keeps his supply of eggs refrigerated. A hot store is as bad as a hot kitchen for losing "freshness." Remove as many eggs from refrigerator as required when baking. In modern eggs which have been allowed to warm up in room temperature.

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi! You've probably heard that old saying, "Like a fish out of water." Brother, I know what that means.

After staying out of the water for a week while we alternated with dry-land conditioning, I literally got back in the swim Thursday and nothing ever felt so good as diving into that water in Cadboro Bay.

The swim lasted only a little more than an hour but I felt as frisky as a young horse and I think my coaches, Archie and Jack, must have thought I was going crazy the way I tore around the bay.

I was a little bit stiff across my shoulders when I first started to swim, but after a few strokes loosened up and I think I hit the fastest pace I have reached in any of my practice dips. While I was swimming against a slight chop, I hit what we call a "30 to the minute" pace and without going into technicalities, I will modestly admit that it is quite fast.

There was another big crowd to watch me go in and Carl Penderay of Bapco Paint was in the coaching boat taking moving pictures of me swimming.

In another boat was Andy Stewart, also of Bapco, taking pictures of Mr. Penderay taking pictures of me.

I think I am almost at the peak of conditioning as far as stamina is concerned. My arm, back and shoulder muscles are in good shape and I am positive the length of the Strait swim will not bother me. From now on, it will be a case of building up resistance to the cold.

I took a two-hour dip this afternoon and will swim three hours in Port Angeles Saturday.

Sunday morning I likely will do two or three hours and in the afternoon I will visit the Queen Alexandra Solum and take part in the prize presentation at the conclusion of the Solum Fishing Derby.

Speaking of that derby, someone was telling me they hope to raise $8,000 in one day for the Solum. From all I have heard, it is a wonderful cause. I have bought my tickets and I hope you have, too. Every time I swim, I thank God that I am in good health. Solums are those kids at the Solums are not so fortunate and we should be glad to help them in any way possible.

Governor Disarms Law In Vice-Ridden Town

National Guard Takes Over Duties Of Sheriff, Police in Phoenix City

PHOENIX CITY, Ala. (UP)—Battle-equipped national guard troops ruled this vice-infested city of "turmoil and fear" today after ousting all law enforcement officers and rounding up their guns and badges.

The grim-faced guardsmen, armed with machine guns, shotguns and carbines, moved into the sheriff's office and the police department on orders of Governor Gordon Persons, who declared a state of martial rule late Thursday.

All weapon permits were voided and the troops began disarming the citizenry. By early today some 40 pistols and one sub-machine gun were reported confiscated.

Persons said the guardsmen will remain in command until they have wiped out the "lawlessness, intimidation, tumult and fear" that have gripped the city's 23,000 persons since the June 18 underworld assassination of crime-fighting Albert L. Patterson.

Patterson was shot to death in an alley after receiving the Democratic nomination as state attorney general a few days before on a pledge to "clean up" Alabama, starting with his

Premier To Be Absent When Duke Greeted

Bonner to Represent Government When Philip Lands at Pat Bay

By TOM GOULD

The Duke of Edinburgh will not be welcomed to British Columbia by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, and no one seems to know why.

In the official itinerary for his Royal Highness' visit to the province, Premier Bennett was to have been presented at Patricia Bay airport by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

Today, it was announced, Attorney-General Robert Bonner will be on hand as the senior official of the provincial government. Government House officials, who are handling details of the Victoria visit, said the change was made "because the premier will be out of town."

They said he will meet the Duke some days later at the British Empire Games stadium in Vancouver.

The premier's office refused all comment.

Here are complete details of the Duke of Edinburgh's Victoria stay:

At 5:30 p.m. on Aug. 1 the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by Lieut. Cmdr. H. Paterson, ADC, will leave Government House for the airport with a motorcycle escort.

Other cars will transport the attorney-general and the mayor from their homes to the airport, returning to the city with the car bearing the Duke.

The plane carrying His Royal Highness will arrive at Patricia Bay at 10:30 p.m. (Continued on Page 13)

Body, 8 Survivors Taken to Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Eight survivors and one body from the ditched Cathay Pacific Skymaster reached Hong Kong late today aboard a United States Air Force PBV flying boat.

All the survivors were injured, some appearing severely cut and bruised. They were kept incommunicado by Hong Kong authorities and taken to hospitals where no one was permitted to talk to them.

CREW SILENCED

Cathay Pacific Airline officials also prevented reporters from talking to members of the PBV crew, so details of the crash and rescue were not immediately available.

The British-owned Skymaster en route from Singapore to Hong Kong via Bangkok, crashed into the South China Sea off Red-Head Island at 9 a.m. today Hong Kong time after an engine caught fire. Some other survivors are believed to have been picked up by small boats from Hainan and probably now are in Communist hands.

NO NAMES RELEASED

Airport and airline authorities would not even give the names of the eight survivors and the one dead person brought here. In Singapore earlier, the airline said "all survivors" had been rescued and that the search had been called off. At that time 12 persons of the 17 aboard had been reported picked up.

Allies Push Towards Asia Defense Parley

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Allies pushed negotiations today in an attempt to nail down the exact time, place and membership of their forthcoming Asian defense conference.

They hope they can get the crucial meeting under way late next month or the first of September so that the free world will soon be able to confront the Communists with an operating Southeast Asian Defense Organization (SEATO).

Dulles and the foreign ministers of at least six other countries are expected to attend the international conference to whip SEATO into final shape.

GUNMEN GET $10,000 HAUL AT EDMONTON

EDMONTON (CP)—An estimated $8,000 to $10,000 was taken today by four hooded gunmen who robbed the Canada Permanent Mortgage Co. in downtown Edmonton just after the office opened.

Holding the staff of 19 at bay and forcing a lone customer to lie down on the floor, two of the bandits scooped the loot into a waste-paper basket and fled within three minutes to a getaway car waiting outside with two accomplices.

PREMIER OUSTED

Albania Said On Verge of Civil War

ROME (UP)—Anti-Communist refugees said today disorders on the scale of a "civil war" are rocking Albania following the ouster of Premier Enver Hoxha from the government.

The reports came from refugee circles in Bari, on Italy's east coast across the Adriatic Sea from Communist Albania. There was no official confirmation of the refugees' claims.

Hoxha, premier since 1945, was deposed in a shakeup which put his arch rival, police boss Mehmet Shehu, the interior minister, in the premier's post.

According to the exiles' reports, Hoxha was ousted because of his alleged sympathies for Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

These quarters said Hoxha wanted an economic union of Yugoslavia and Albania, which is known to be in the throes of an economic crisis. Shehu, in his first statement as the new premier, attacked the alliance and said it would interfere with Albania's plans to better its relations with Yugoslavia.

Entire U.S. Intelligence In Jeopardy

German Security Chief Believed In Russian Hands

BERLIN (UP)—U.S. officials said today they fear the Russians may be wringing secrets of the hush-hush American central intelligence agency from West Germany's security chief.

Otto John, mysteriously missing behind the Iron Curtain and believed kidnapped by Red agents.

American high commission sources in Bonn said John may have considerable knowledge of American counter-espionage as a result of his recent conferences in Washington, with CIA chief Allen Dulles.

Western security officials were stunned by the news of John's disappearance and expressed fears West German security policies would have to be overhauled. They made no attempt to conceal the fact that John is the richest prize ever to fall into Communist hands.

The German counterpart of America's J. Edgar Hoover disappeared into the Soviet-run east sector of Berlin Tuesday night.

Western officials believe he was kidnapped or lured there. Their fears for the safety of any American counter-intelligence secrets he may have known were heightened by a wave of arrests of Western secret agents in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Peace Pact No 'Munich', Says Smith

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under-secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, who represented the United States at the Geneva conference, said today the Indo-China peace settlement was "the best which we could have possibly obtained under the circumstances."

Smith made the statement at the airport after flying back to report to President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles on the Geneva meeting, as well as the talks he had in London Thursday night with Prime Minister Churchill.

Smith was asked whether he thought, as some congressional critics have suggested, that the peace agreement was a kind of "Far Eastern Munich." This referred to an agreement reached by the western powers at Munich before the Second World War in an effort to block Hitler's further conquest by bowing to some of his demands.

"Munich is a damn poor term," Smith growled. "At Munich things were given away when there was no fighting. This is a war."

Fish Breakfast For Diver Seeking Underwater Mark

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ed Fisher, trying to become the first man to spend 24 hours underwater in a diving suit, had fish for breakfast today, 30 feet below the surface on the floor of the coral canyon.

Fisher planned to come to the surface this afternoon after 24 hours underwater. His purpose was to test a new self-contained diving suit. A team of assistants took fish tanks of air to him every hour.

He was able to eat fish by removing the air tube from his mouth just long enough to take a bite of food.

Chou Pays Visit To East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai arrived in East Berlin by air today from Geneva for a visit to East Germany at the invitation of the Communist government.

Chou was greeted at the Soviet Schoenfeldt airport by Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl. Chou also will visit Warsaw, Moscow and Ulan Bator, the capital of Mongolia, on his way home to Peking.

Foreign Secretary Talks With Queen

LONDON (AP)—Anthony Eden's prominent role as a peacemaker at Geneva stirred new speculation today that Prime Minister Churchill may soon retire in favor of his heir-apparent foreign secretary.

The Daily Sketch, a strong supporter of Churchill's Conservative government, said this may have been the reason Eden had an audience Thursday night with the Queen.

Most observers thought the Queen called the foreign secretary to Buckingham Palace to congratulate him on his part in working out the Indo-China cease-fire. But such an audience also could mean that the 79-year-old Churchill has recommended Eden to the Queen as his successor.

RIGHT TIME? The News Chronicle, a Liberal paper, said many members of Parliament are speculating that Churchill "may regard this as the right time to hand over to Mr. Eden."

"The foreign secretary is back from Geneva with his prestige enhanced, Suez negotiations are well under way and Washington talks have repaired many rifts in Anglo-American friendship."

The News Chronicle added, however, that "one powerful influence works against the prime minister's leaving Downing street now—his desire to seal this period of office with a top-level meeting of the Big Three."

Nine Nations Asked To Back Peace Pact

Action By Britain-U.S. Seen As Move To Prevent New Indo-China Flare-Up

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States have asked nine nations to back up the Indo-China settlement and so lessen the risk of any new flare-up, official sources reported today.

Without calling for any hard military guarantees of the Indo-China cease-fire lines, London and Washington apparently are hoping to get from the nine countries:

1. A declaration, similar to that made by the United States, that they will refrain from disturbing the settlement by force.

2. A pledge that they will view with grave concern any aggressive attempts to disturb the settlement.

The United States has asked Thailand and the Philippines for this support. Britain has called for it from India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Indonesia, Burma, Australia and New Zealand.

Informants said the British-American action is intended to clear the way for a wider, international conference on the formation of a full-scale South-east Asian treaty organization.

Machine of Many Colors Cures All Ills By 'Tonation'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Stand nude in a dark room and choose the proper color for your ailments, read the instructions accompanying a boxed-in lamp.

The apparatus was bought for $70 from Mrs. Nathalie Witt, who with Mrs. Virginia Folea have been charged with illegal practice of medicine.

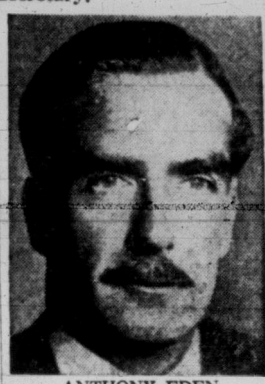

The buyer was Mrs. Pat Patton of the better business bureau, who says Mrs. Witt refers to herself as a "normalator," and boasts of a thriving practice in "helping" people by bathing them in colored light suited to their complaints.

Mrs. Patton said the devices were manufactured and sold by Dinshah P. Chadiali's "spectrochrome institute" before 1947, when Dinshah was convicted on food and drug administration charges and his cult went underground.

'TERRIFIC' GEORGE DREW WILL STAY, SAYS HEES

HALIFAX (BUP)—President George Hees of the national Progressive Conservative Association today described the split in the party's ranks in British Columbia as "purely local" and said that George Drew would continue as party leader.

Hees told a news conference that Drew was doing "a terrific" job and would lead the party into the next federal election as he has done in the past two.

Link Coffin With Hunters

PERCE, Que. (BUP)—The Crown today continued its attempts to connect 40-year-old prospector Wilbert Coffin and three American bear hunters whom he is suspected of murdering in Gaspe bush a year ago.

Testimony at this morning's court session revealed that eggs purchased by the Hollidaysburg, Pa., hunters were later found by police in the possession of the defendant.

A store clerk of Gaspe said he sold eggs from his small farm to the United States tourists on the morning of June 8, 1953, the day before they entered the rugged peninsula woods to hunt bears.

The clerk said the eggs were marked and that some of them were later found in Coffin's possession.

ASK FLO ON THIS ONE; PUZZLE PRIZE TO $100

An answer which Flo Caldwell could easily provide proved a big stumbling block for this week's crossworders, and there was no winner. The composer ruled that "wake" rather than "wave" was the answer to "likely to cause an inexperienced swimmer to get into difficulties." As he explains, a person going swimming would encounter waves, if there were any, from the start and would not get into sudden difficulty from them. But the wake of a boat could easily cause trouble. Full solution of the puzzle is on page 19, along with puzzle No. 70, now worth $100 to a bonus winner.

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A fish cannery and reduction plant, a store, post office and a home at Ceepeecee, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, were reported to have been destroyed by fire today.

The buildings, all property of Nelson Brothers Fisheries, Ltd., were valued at about $500,000.

Richard Nelson, president of the cannery, flew to the scene from Vancouver with insurance adjusters. Company officials in Vancouver said they could not get through to the cannery settlement by radio telephone, and added that particulars would not be available until Mr. Nelson returned tonight.

The home reported destroyed in the blaze was owned by the operator of the store and post office.

BABIES BEING PRETTIED FOR TIMES' TROPHY

Preparations for the 18th annual All-Sooke Day Saturday speeded up today with the lighting of fires for a giant beef and fish barbecue, and placing of logs for the now-famous loggers' sports on Sooke River flats.

The celebration, recognized as a true community effort, is free. Only income is from the barbecues and refreshment stands, and it all goes to Sooke Community Association for improvement of the grounds and local projects.

Babies of the district, and other neighboring rural areas, will be scrubbed and polished by their mothers for the annual baby show, in which top prize is the Victoria Daily Times trophy.

Apart from the contests, the barbecues have an attraction of their own that appeals to more than the sense of taste.

UNUSUAL FEED
The sight of salmon baking over alder fires, under the watchful eye of Andre Robillard, has become an All-Sooke Day institution.

The beef barbecue is just as unusual. Fires already have been lighted in the barbecue pit, and at midnight huge chunks of beef, soaked in brine and wrapped in paper and burlap, will be tossed on the coals, covered, and allowed to cook for 14 hours.

If calculations are correct, and they have not been wrong yet, the beef will be tender, juicy and ready for eating by 2 p.m., when the pit will be opened and the smoking meat extracted.

That color machine may not be a cure all, but it oughta take care of an attack o' th' blues.

See where a man had 't ball out o' his flyin' machine eight miles up. Wonder wuz he up there lookin' for the cost o' livin'?

What with the Sooke barbecue an' the Solarium derby, it just ain't safe t' be a salmon this week-end.
